Propose 13-acre $2,000,000 shopping center at Arlington

New summer orchestra formed; need members

Frederick Schmoyer, director of music at Arlington Heights township high school, is organizing a Community orchestra and invites all adults and high school students in the Arlington Heights area, who are interested in playing in a summer orchestra, to the first rehearsal June 24 at 8:15 p. m. in the high school instrumental room, the stage of the new addition.

It is hoped that there are enough interested orchestral musicians in this area to organize and conduct a successful orchestra program.

The orchestra will be part of the summer music program that is sponsored each year by the high school board of education and, as such, will have the use of school facilities and the school orchestra library.

Mr. Schmoyer has studied orchestra repertoire with such conductors as Dr. Ernst S. Williams; Pierre Hennrotte, former concertmaster of the Metropolitan Opera House Orchestra, and Thor Johnson, conductor of the Cincinnati Symphony Orchestra.

Brass, woodwind and string players are needed if this new Community Orchestra is to succeed. Members of the regular summer band are also eligible to join this group, and later in the season arrangements will be made to present concerts in this area.

Prospect Heights man elected to fill vacancy on town school board

Arthur E. Nelson, 45, 106 McDonald rd., Prospect Heights, has been elected to fill the vacancy on the Wheeling township board of school trustees caused by the death of H. W. Burmeister.

Mr. Nelson has been a resident in the area seven years and has taken an active part in civic affairs, especially the Prospect Hts. Improvement association, which he has served as treasurer.

He is with the Illinois Bell Telephone Co. as an engineer in the Chicago area district.

Action on the last petition of residents of North Mt. Prospect area for annexation to school district 57 has been delayed because of the vacancy.

Located on State Rd., 3 blocks south of business district

Plans for the construction of an elaborate new shopping center in Arlington Heights were revealed to the board of trustees of the village at its meeting June 10. Builder and sponsor of the project is John Lindstrom, Inc., of Arlington Heights, who made application to the village for the zoning of the site for the proposed shopping center to commercial use.

The site for the proposed new business area is a 13-acre tract on the east side of State Road, about three blocks south of the east boundary of the present Arlington Heights shopping section and bordered on the east and south by the attractive Scarsdale subdivision. The area requested to be rezoned, surrounded by some of the Arlington Heights loveliest homes, is now devoted to farm use. To complement and conform to the surrounding residential area, the sponsors have adopted the traditional Colonial-Georgian type of architecture for the new shopping center that is so prevalent throughout this section of the village.

Architectural firm is Mittelbusher / Tourtelot; financing by Ward Farnsworth Co.,

Sketches of the entrance to the new shopping center, a typical building, of which there will be several, and a proposed use plan of the site were revealed to the board of village trustees. The red brick, white trim and green shingled roofs planned for the new center is typical of the architecture chosen. Extensive landscaping, with emphasis on perimeter planting and lawns, will add to the beauty and appeal of the new development, the sponsors report.

The plans reveal extensive paved areas of the site reserved for parking automobiles. In fact, the ratio of parking space to actual buildings to be constructed is revealed to be in excess of 3 to 1. Thus, for every foot of store space, there is planned to be a minimum of 3 feet of paved parking area. Service and deliveries to all store buildings will be in a screened area reserved for the purpose at the rear of each building, leaving the front of the buildings unobstructed and free at all times for the use of shoppers. Canopied walkways, offering shade and shelter, as well as uniform heating and air conditioning of all store space, will be provided for the comfort of shoppers, it is announced.

SAFETY FOR motorists and pedestrians is reported to be a keynote of the design for the new shopping center, with every effort made to assure easy and uncluttered access to and egress from the project. Traffic problems and hazards in and near the project will be eliminated by proper planning, the village board was told. Particular attention and emphasis will be devoted to making the proposed business area an asset to surrounding property and the community, the sponsors report.

John Lindstrom, representing the sponsoring firm that he heads, said the cost of the development when completed will probably approach $2,000,000 and the speed of development of the new shopping center will depend on the rapidity with which it is accepted by prospective eligible tenants. He reported that preliminary interest seems to be keen and the ultimate objective of developing this modern shopping center to regional importance should result in increased business for all Arlington Hts. business firms.

Arlington Heights was chosen for this attractive and important development because of its strategic location in the northwest suburban area, its splendid access roads to all adjoining towns and developed tracts and its progress and rate of growth, according to Mr. Lindstrom. He said his firm has spent several years building homes in most of the northwest suburbs and this experience in the various communities, coupled with considerable study and analysis as to the proper place for this project, led to the choice of Arlington Heights and the proposed site as the most logical and favorable location for the new shopping center.

The village board expressed keen interest in Mr. Lindstrom's plans and, as is customary, referred the petition for rezoning the shopping center site to the zoning board for its recommendation. It is understood that an early hearing on this zoning matter will be requested of the zoning board.

Feehanville school hearing Monday night

A joint meeting of the school trustees of Wheeling, Elk Grove, and Maine townships will be held Monday evening, June 16, in the Central school, Mt. Prospect.

Its purpose is consideration of a petition asking that an area north of and adjoining school district 57 shall be disconnected from the Feehanville school district and attached to the Mount Prospect school system.

Approximately one-fourth of the Public Service Co. property would be affected by the transfer. The original petition sought about half of the property.

It appears that opposition on the part of the Feehanville district, including Forest River, has not been lessened by the reduction of the area to be lost. On the other hand the Mount Prospect school board has made no official statement of its willingness to accept the reduced area.

Heights schools need substitute instructors

Arlington Heights high school and elementary schools need substitute teachers.

Those who have Illinois limited state certificates issued from July 1, 1948, to the present can get their certificates renewed and be qualified to substitute in schools in Arlington Heights.

These certificates must be renewed before July 1, 1952, or they will automatically expire.

Cook county certificates issued since July 1, 1948, are exchangeable for Illinois certificates of similar grade if exchanged before July 1, 1952. All Illinois certificates must be registered with the county superintendent's office before the teacher can be paid for substitute teaching.

If certificates are renewed later than July 1, under the new law the instructor might have to take a provisional certificate and undergo additional study.

All registration of certificates is done through the superintendent of the district in which an instructor expects to substitute. For further information, teachers should call the superintendent of the district in which they plan to substitute.

2,000 PETITIONERS ASKED TO VOTE ON COMPROMISE

Summer band to hold first rehearsal June 23

Arlington Heights Community Summer Band will conduct its first rehearsal June 23 at 8:15 p. m. in the high school instrumental room. Fredrick Schmoyer, director of music at the Arlington Heights high school, will again conduct the series of summer concerts.

All adults are especially invited to join the summer band program, which is sponsored by the high school board of education.

Rehearsals are held Monday and Wednesday evenings with concerts scheduled for Thursday or Friday evenings.

At the present time Mr. Schmoyer is accepting invitations for band appearances and anyone interested in securing the services of the band should call him at Arlington Heights 200 or 2278. The band is now scheduled to play for the July 4 celebration in Arlington Heights and for the 4-H Fair at the race track August 15. They are, however, interested in securing many additional carnival and Fair dates.

New members, old members and high school students are invited to the first band rehearsal June 23.

Arlinton has its own auto shooting mystery

Donald Finfrock, 711 N. Dunton, Arlington Heights, reported to Arlington Heights police June 10 that the slug of a small rifle had gone through his windshield as he was traveling east on the Northwest Highway at Wilshire.

Police believe that the bullet came from a .22 rifle in the hands of some youngster in that neighborhood and asks that Stonegate parents check their children as to use of firearms.

One killed, five injured in car crashes

One motorist was killed and five others were injured in auto accidents in the Northwest suburban area during the past week.

George M. Thompson, 43, of Deerpath rd., Barrington, was killed instantly early Tuesday morning when his auto rammed into an abutement on Northwest highway across from the North Western depot at Cumberland in Des Plaines.

THOMPSON, a signalman for the North Western railroad, was traveling north on Northwest hwy. He lost control of his car and ran across the highway striking the concrete abutement.

A coroner's jury directed by Deputy Coroner Irving Tuschow ruled the death accidental.

The body was taken to Oehler's funeral home at Des Plaines and later removed to the Foelschow funeral home at Barrington.

THREE PERSONS, including a Mt. Prospect man, were injured early Friday morning in a head-on collision at Rand and Golf rds.

Injured were Joseph Pattee, 21, of 504 N. Maple ave., Mt. Prospect; David Coutts, 44, and a passenger in his car, Rose Mooney, 35, both of Chicago.

According to police, Pattee, driving his truck north on Rand rd., lost control of his vehicle and crashed head-on into Coutts' car going south on Rand rd.

Pattee told county police an object in the highway, possibly a brick, caused him to lose control of his truck and swerve into the opposite lane.

Marie Karas, 53, of Chicago, was injured Sunday afternoon when an auto driven by her husband, Frank, also 53, crashed into a truck at Rand and McDonald rds.

Archie DiBartolomeo, 65, of Clarence ave., Arlington Heights, was the driver of the truck.

ACCORDING to police, the accident occurred when DiBartolomeo stopped his truck to make a left turn into McDonald rd. and the Karas car rammed into the read of the stopped truck.

In a four-way auto accident on Rand rd., west of Route 83 late Friday night, Mrs. Agnes Potter, 42, of Chicago, was injured.

Mrs. Potter was a passenger in a car operated by her husband, Carl, 46.

ACCORDING to police, Potter's car along with autos driven by Arthur Wheaton, 20, of Richmond, Ill., and Edward Walsh Jr., 29, of Chicago, had stopped for a traffic signal.

A car driven by Ernest LaFollette, 31, of Laurel, Ind., crashed into Walsh's car causing it to ram into the Potter auto.

Citizens group ask acceptance, or cash pledge for legal costs

A possible compromise in the Roth manufacturing matter is being presented by mail this week to the 2,000 persons who signed the original petition asking Arlington Heights village board to refuse annexation of the Kirchhoff tract.

Its acceptance will end all controversy and enable the manufacturing company to continue with its plans. Its rejection will mean a continuation of the controversy that may become a court battle that might cost up to $15,000 on the part of the objectors.

The compromise has the recommendation of George Hoban and 21 of the 33 men active in the circulation of the original petitions. Eleven voted against its acceptance.

The vote will be by postcard ballot, which must be in the mails by June 16. In order to be representative every person is asked to personally sign and mail his vote at once.

If such a method is followed there can be no high pressure methods exerted by any group. The desire of the committee is for a personal expression by the persons who signed the original petition.

The meaning of the compromise is outlined in a four page letter to the petitioners, which is also being published in this issue.

Provisions of the proposed compromise appears in an adjoining column.

The letter accompanying the ballot appears in full on page five of this issue.

The price of season family tickets is $11; husband and wife, $6; children individual, $4; the wading pool is free.

Police to patrol areas other than highways

Mayor Albert Goedke in a statement before the Arlington Heights village council admonished village police for the frequency of arrests on Northwest hwy. and asked Police Chief Carl Skoog to instruct all officers to also patrol other areas of Arlington Heights.

In Judge William Neumann's court Tuesday night, two Arlington Heights drivers—both arrested on non-arterial streets—appeared on speeding charges.

Two other drivers, one a Barrington man and an out-of-state driver, were arrested on similar charges on Rte. 14. Both were fined $10 and costs.

One Heights driver was taken into custody on Kensington rd. He was fined $5 and costs. The other local driver, a 17-year-old youth, appeared in court but was not accompanied by his father and the case was continued until next week. The youth was arrested on Dunton st.

A check of the records this week shows that of 28 citations issued to motorists who were tried in Judge Neumann's court May 20 and 27 for driving violations, only five local drivers were arrested.

All of the arrests were made on Northwest hwy., with the exception of four cases. One driver was tagged for a stop sign violation on State rd., another for the same violation on Euclid ave. A Heights youth was charged with reckless driving on Campbell st., and another Heights driver arrested on State rd., was charged with having no driver's license.

Of the total arrests, 28 were made for speeding. Fourteen of these drivers gave out-of-city addresses and four were from out-of-state. Three local drivers were arrested for speeding.

In addition, police arrested four persons with failing to have village stickers. One driver was tagged for all night parking on a village street.

Police also arrested nine persons for failing to have licenses for their dogs.

The records show that $250.50 was collected in fines and $102.50 in costs. All of the persons arrested by local police appeared before Judge Neumann.

Neighbor's quick action saves lives of 3 Scarsdale residents

An alert neighbor couple saved a Scarsdale family from possible death early Sunday morning in a fire that caused damage estimated at $6,500.

The blaze routed the Paul Moore family at 625 S. Belmont ave. shortly after 5 a. m.

Mr. and Mrs. S. D. Braden who live across the street, saw the reflection of the flames in a bedroom mirror and gave the alarm.

Mr. and Mrs. Moore and son, Donald, 16, managed to get out of the burning house shortly before fireman arrived. Mr. Moore is a television engineer for NBC.

Quick action by the Arlington Heights volunteer fire department confined the blaze to the front room. It was believed that a defective cord on a lamp caused the fire.

All of the furniture in the front room except a TV set and bookcase was destroyed. Heat caused much damage to furnishings and decorations throughout the house.

After the Bradens discovered the blaze, Mr. Braden ran to the nearby home of Paul Fleming, and Fleming telephoned the fire department. The Bradens only recently moved into the Scarsdale area and have, as yet, no telephone.

By the time firemen arrived, flames were shooting out the windows in the front of the house. Fireman credited strong insulation between the first and second floors with keeping the blaze from breaking out into the bedroom directly above the front living room.

Firemen expressed the belief that the intense heat would have spread the conflagration if the fire had gone undiscovered minutes longer.

Toothbrushes, plastic cups and shower curtains were melted in the bathroom which is at the rear of the house. Rims of Mr. Moore's glasses on a dresser in the bedroom were also melted. All of the doors and most of the woodwork throughout the house was blistered.

There was no damage due to water.

Mrs. Moore was high in her praise for the Arlington firemen.

"When you think of firemen, you think of water and axes. But those fellows came in here and put out the fire, I do believe, without any water," she said.

"Those guys are really wonderful," she added.

Firemen had the fire under control minutes after arriving at the scene.

Postpone library opening

The dedication of Arlington Heights new library building has been postponed one week from the original date. Delay in the finishing of the floors has caused the library board to change their original plans.

Library service at the old building has been discontinued. The librarian is making good use of the extra time to properly catalogue new books and to classify books previously in circulation.

The few people who have looked over the interior of the new building are saying some very nice things. The general opinion seems to be that the building "is worth waiting for."

State police cracking down on fire works sales

Wallace Clerk, Franklin Park, was released on $1,000 bonds last week by Judge Behrens, Arlington Heights, subject to a hearing on the charge of illegal sale of fire works. He is an officer of the Central Trading Post.

He is charged with selling fire works at his place of business and in his home as well as through the mails. Chief Kennedy is pressing the case.

Youth injured in farm accident

Donald Mann, 20, of Round Lake, Ill., was injured Tuesday afternoon when a tractor ran over his legs while working on a farm at Wolf and Foundry rds.

The youth was taken to the Cordell Memorial hospital in an ambulance from Oehler's funeral home at Des Plaines.

Arlington Heights approves $475,000 school bonds 8 to 1; will build two new schools

Voters residing in School District 25, Arlington Heights, at a special election Saturday, again gave approval to major school expansion, this time totaling nearly a half million dollars.

They voted on eight propositions that will make possible the erection of two new school buildings.

THE VOTE was eight to one. Approval was given to three bond issues, totaling $475,000.

The Dryden school project that is nearing completion, will benefit by a $30,000 bond issue which will be used for grading, paving, sidewalks and additional equipment.

Purchase of land south from the district's present southside school property is made possible by the approval of $38,000 in bonds. Arlington Heights Park District will receive $11,850 for four lots. The Catholic Bishop will receive $26,400.

FROM THE building bond issues approved, $212,000 will be used for the erection of an elementary school upon the above property for grades one to five inclusive. This will allow six rooms of the present South school to be converted to Junior High school use.

Facilities for the school children residing north of the tracks will be increased by building a new school in Arlington Ridge. Its cost, $195,000, is provided by the inclusion of that amount in the bond issues approved Saturday.

THE SITE upon which this school will be erected, was dedicated by the subdivider at the insistence of the village board. It is located at the west end of Vine st., between Kasper and Fernandez sts.

The vote on the several propositions was:

	Yes	No
No. 1, site purchase	812	100
No. 2, site bonds	808	105
No. 3, Arl. Ridge School	812	102
No. 4, bonds for above	800	107
No. 5, new south school	808	100
No. 6, bonds for above	796	104
No. 7, Dryden school walks	797	113
Site location	800
Site location unmarked		96
Spoiled ballots		34
Number ballots cast		930

There is every indication that the Dryden school will be ready for school opening in September. It is under roof, floor with radiant floor heating is completed, window sash is in place, and partitions are being started.

Lake Michigan water for northwest suburbs

Northwest suburbs have been invited to study the feasibility of joining the proposed Metropolitan District Water Company, which would supply Lake Michigan water to towns surrounding Chicago.

Mayor Kenneth G. Meyer of Des Plaines has written officials of Park Ridge, Mt. Prospect, Arlington Heights, and Palatine asking if they would join Des Plaines officials in investigating the proposals of the water company.

The Northwest suburbs that obtain their water supply from wells, he says, must some day look to Lake Michigan for their water supply. The proposed plan anticipates a crib in Lake Michigan just north of the Lake-Cook line, which would serve the suburbs within a 20 mile radius of the downtown section of Chicago. Each participating town would have the right to resell the water to residents at the price they might see fit.

Arlington Heights and Mount Prospect trustees have replied to the letter and will meet with Mayor Meyer and his committee at a date to be set

Fare increase for commuters set for July 1

A hike in the price of commuter tickets on the Chicago and North Western railroad will go into effect July 1 unless the Illinois Commerce commission rules against the rate increase.

Railroad officials have filed a notice with the commission as required by law, and are making plans to put the new increase into effect. However, the commission usually postpones the date for the scheduled increases and a public hearing is set.

A check with railroad officials this week revealed that the commission, as yet, have failed to act on the increase proposal. No postponement has been made nor has there been a date set for a public hearing.

The railroad, because of higher operating costs, are seeking boosts in fares ranging from 20 to 38 per cent.

After 30 years women still prefer skirts

It was 30 years ago, according to this week's Way Back When, that young ladies began wearing knickers. A reporter who wrote at that time that the knickers were a welcome change from the extremely short skirts, predicted that women would some day adopt men's clothes.

They have reached the slack and overall age, but it does not appear that they are any nearer to discarding skirts altogether than they were in 1922.

For the benefit of the present day generation, let us say that the 1922 knickers when worn as outside raiment, gave somewhat the appearance of bloomers reaching just beneath the knee.

Ballot to be used by signers

The compromise offer should be accepted —

YES ( ) NO ( )

If the compromise is not accepted, I am willing, if called upon, to contribute the following amount to conduct further opposition to the Kirchhoff annexation—

$0 ( ) $2 ( ) $5 ( ) $10 ( ) $25 ( ) $50 ( ) $100 ( )

or (fill in amount) .....

Meaning of the compromise

1. The 70 acres lying east of the proposed Tri-State Extension, south of the Village Sewer Plant to Central Road and west of the present subdivision in Mt. Prospect would become industrial, but would have the following restrictions:
   (a) The south 250 feet commencing at the center of Central Road would be reserved for park purposes.
   (b) The use of this 70 acres would, by covenant, bar any foundries or heavy industry of any type.
2. The remainder of the Kirchhoff land of about 70 acres lying west of the proposed Tri-State Extension and south of our present plants and north of Central Road and east of Arthur Avenue would have a restrictive covenant prohibiting the use of that land for any type of industrial purposes either light or heavy for a minimum period of thirty years.

Fire damages farm home of Alfred Busse on Rand road

Fire of unknown origin did considerable damage Tuesday about 6 o'clock to the farm home of Alfred Busse, Rand and Central roads.

Workmen engaged in making repairs upon the home had left an hour earlier. Busse was in the basement and was unaware of the fire until honking cars began to drive into his yard.

Charles Gray, a mile distant, was one of the first to notice the smoke and hastily drove to the scene. The attention of Mr. Busse's son, who was working in a field, was called by a neighbor.

In spite of the delay in summoning the Mount Prospect Fire department, they were soon on the job. Considerable water was needed to prevent the spread of the blaze. The major damage was to the roof and attic.

Mr. Busse has the highest praise for the neighbors and the firemen who fought the blaze. He says, "I wish I could thank every one personally. It is at such times as these that a farmer realizes the value of a good fire department and kind neighbors."

Insurance was carried in the Mutual Fire Insurance Co. of Mount Prospect and Northfield company.

Buster Keaton comedy being filmed at Palatine

The major scenes for a 40-minute slapstick comedy starring Buster Keaton were being filmed this week on the Oscar Plote farm on Algonquin rd., four miles west of Plum Grove rd.

The film, although produced by John Deere, farm implement manufacturers, is a non-commercial. However, it will be shown by all John Deere dealers this fall in connection with the annual John Deere Days promotion.

Northwest suburban dealers are making plans to show the film.

The movie is being filmed by Wilding Pictures of Chicago and is directed by Dell Lorde, longtime director for Keaton.

More than 30 film technicians, movie and sound crews and production men took over the farm Monday. The shooting was expected to be finished by Thursday.

A large windmill, a dummy building, haystacks, a hog pen, and corn cribs were erected in the Platt farm yard. Two dozen hogs were imported to fill out the "cast."

The story will deal with Keaton's antics in turning a rundown farm into a paying proposition.

4-H Bumble Bees

The 4-H Bumble Bees of East Maine held their meeting outdoors on June 6.

There were two demonstrations: threading a needle and using a thimble by Barbara Jean Rasmussen and pulling threads by Barbara Addington.

After the meeting the girls went inside and worked on their skirts.

National guard to camp this year in Minnesota

Plans for the movement of upwards of seven thousand members of the national guard for 15-days summer training beginning July 5, are now complete, Major General George F. Ferry, commanding general, has announced.

The sixth annual postwar field encampment will take place at 27,000 acre Camp Ripley, Minn., on the banks of the Mississippi, 108 miles northwest of Minneapolis, he stated.

Movement of more than 140 units from eight metropolitan and nine suburban armories in Cook and DuPage counties will be made by truck, bus, train and air, with an estimated 900 vehicles and twelve complete trains invoived. Motor convoys will establish overnight bivouacs at Camp Williams, Wisconsin, and Minneapolis for the two-day motor trek.

GENERAL FERRY advised that in view of the 33rd division's completion last year of a three-year training cycle with superior rating, this year's schedule, for the best equipped Illinois national guard in history, will be largely on a small unit basis at platoon and company level and will stress individual and unit tactical readiness in the light of recent experience. Combat veterans, back from Korean fighting, will add their personal experience and know-how to the instruction received by the guardsmen in the field this year.

In addition to each guardsman firing his assigned weapon, armor recoilless weapons, anti-aircraft, and artillery firing ranges will be utilized to the maximum during the encampment.

A three-day bivouac, under tactical conditions stressing night operations, is also scheduled for the two weeks of the encampment.

In addition to the minimum requirement of 104 hours of scheduled training, a well-rounded sports and recreational program including entertainment, movies and athletics is being arranged for off-duty hours at the scenic, century-old encampment 520 road miles from Chicago in the heart of Minnesota's vacationland. Visits to nearby vacation spots will be encouraged with reguar convoys scheduled.

Skokie Valley dog show at Mt. Prospect

This coming Sunday, June 15, the Skokie Valley kennel club will hold its 15th annual all-breed dog show and obedience trial on the grounds of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, Post 1337, located on routes 83 and 12, just north of Mt. Prospect.

The show, which starts at 9 a. m. and will run until 8 p. m., is the largest outdoor show in the middle west, having an entry this year of 1150 dogs. In the obedience trials some 169 dogs have been entered—78 in Novice A; 30 in Novice B; 30 in Open A; 21 in Open B; and 10 in Utility.

In the confirmation picture it is of interest to note that there are 94 Great Danes; 83 German Shepherds; 77 Boxers and 64 Collies entered and in that order are the top breeds from the standpoint of the number of individual entries.

Two of the judges are from this area including Mrs. H. F. Webster of Glenview, who will judge miniature and standard poodles, and Willy Necker of Wheeling who will judge the open A and utility obedience classes.

Early summer services at Presbyterian church

Beginning next Sunday, June 15, there will be a service of worship beginning at 8:15 a. m. at the First Presbyterian church, Arlington Heights. This will be identical to the second service except for the music.

Those who wish to worship earlier in the day are invited to this service. The regular service at 11 o'clock will continue as usual.

Church services and church school continue through the summer months.

Legion Auxiliary selects Nancy Scott to attend Illini Girls' State

Nancy Scott, junior at Arlington Heights township high school and daughter of Mr. and Mrs. G. Arden Scott of W. Euclid st., has been named by Merle Guild Auxiliary, Post 208 of the American Legion, Arlington Heights, to attend the twelfth session of Illini Girls' State.

Illini Girls' State will again be held at MacMurray college, Jacksonville, Ill., and the session will last from June 24 to July 2. The purpose of Girls' State is to provide citizenship training for Illinois girls, to give them an opportunity to live together as self-governing citizens and to become informed about the duties, privileges, rights and responsibilities of American citizenship in order that they may understand and participate in the functions of this government.

The girls will live in a miniature state patterned after the state of Illinois and following the Illinois governmental procedure as closely as possible.

Students attending Girls' State are chosen on the basis of their patriotism, leadership, scholarship, character and service. Miss Scott has been interested in journalism and has been a member of the staff of the school newspaper, the Cardinal, for three years. Her interest in dramatics has also made her an outstanding member of Paint and Wig, dramatic organization, for three years.

She has also been active in girls' athletics, in the band, in the Spanish club, and in the Pep club. Because of her high scholarship, she has been on the honor roll for four successive semesters and has been awarded a four-semester honor pin.

Few fireworks this year; Monday is zero hour for unlicensed county taverns

Cook county folks will have to settle for cap guns, sparklers, toy canes and punk this Fourth of July.

Sheriff Babb is backing a proposed federal law which bars interstate shipment of fireworks. He asks that parents refrain from buying fireworks from out of state. His officers will investigate every case in which children are in possession of fireworks labeled as dangerous.

Sheriff John E. Babb said Friday that on June 16 his police will check all places that sell liquor in unincorporated areas. Places without licenses will be closed.

Geo. Hoban lays all annexation facts before petition signers

"You were a signer of the original petition on which approximately 2,000 names were obtained opposing the annexation of the Kirchhoff property. On June 2, 1952, 32 of your fellow citizens who were, for the most part, active in obtaining signatures on that petition, decided that each signer of the petition should have the opportunity of expressing his opinion whether to accept a compromise which has been offered in this controversy. A ballot is, therefore, enclosed on which we request you to express your vote and post not later than June 16, 1952. The number of ballots which we receive will indicate your continued interest in this matter and we, therefore, urgently request you to immediately deposit this ballot in the mail.

It is impossible to outline all of the activities which have taken place since the signing of the petition and it will be assumed that you are familiar with the hearings which have been held before the village board, planning commission and zoning board of appeals. At this moment the village board has voted to annex the property.

"A second petition was filed seeking a referendum upon that annexation ordinance. There is a serious legal dispute as to whether we are entitled to a referendum and the village has sued the signer of this letter as a representative of the village citizens to obtain a judicial determination of that issue. This law suit assuming there could be appeals, could continue until well into 1953. In the interim, the matter had been referred to the planning commission which recommended to the village board to rezone the property as industrial property by a vote of 10 to 2. The matter was then referred to the zoning board of appeals for rezoning from residential to industrial property. The hearings have been completed before that board and it currently has the matter under advisement.

"The question we must decide is whether to continue the fight and gamble on the chances of obtaining a referendum by virtue of winning the law suit and then winning the referendum. We, of course, do not know what the decision of the zoning board of appeals would be but we would also be gambling the outcome of that decision.

"I originally stated that I would donate my time to conduct this controversy by appearing before the local zoning board of appeals and by conducting the necessary litigation in an attempt to obtain a referendum. I am still willing to donate my time to that extent if you so indicate by your ballots not to accept the compromise. This does not include conducting a legal battle over the zoning if it was adverse to our interest. That is very expensive litigation and a committee representing our interest decided early in the game that we could not afford to carry on a legal dispute in respect to the zoning, but it was decided that we, no doubt, could raise enough funds to pay for the costs of a full-dress law suit with respect to the referendum which I had estimated would be approximately $600.00 to $800.00 which you must understand, represents monies which would be required for printing briefs and records.

"Approximately two weeks ago, Attorney Wild representing the Kirchhoffs, invited Hugo Thal, the village attorney, Attorney Willard Walters of the Planning Commission and board of zoning appeals and the writer, to a meeting at his office in which he stated that it was his opinion we could possibly compromise this matter as he was of the opinion our primary concern was the growth of a large industrial area of some 140 acres; that if we would indicate informally our willingness to agreement, he would attempt to obtain authority from his clients to restrict the 70 acres which would lie west of the Tri-State extension. I informed Mr. Wild that if he could give me a firm commitment that his clients would so agree, I would submit the matter to our group and would seek an expression of opinion from them.

"On May 27th, I was advised by Mr. Wild that he could formally offer such a compromise. I then contacted Trustee Edward Carlisle and asked him to contact the members of the village board and ascertain whether they would go along with such a compromise and if they would cooperate in establishing street plans and other zoning plans for the village at the same time this was under consideration. Mr. Carlisle later called me and advised he had contacted all members of the Board with the exception of Trustee Robinson and that all had expressed themselves informally that they would be willing to do so.

"Mr. Walters of the planning commission stated that he was sure the planning commission would cooperate. Mr. Carlisle also added that the board would give serious consideration to the contraction of the present 50 acres of industrial zoning property now within the village limits and bordering on the Eastwood subdivision. I then sent a letter to 52 people who, for the most part, worked on the original petition and who from time to time have acted in advisory capacity in our actions. This letter invited them to a meeting which was held on June 2, 1952.

"The group unanimously agreed that each signer of the original petition should have the opportunity to express himself and a committee of four, consisting of Charles Barrett of Eastwood, Robert Blackburn of Sherwood, Arthur Trever of South Dunton and Albert Goldthwaite of Scarsdale, was selected to approve this letter and to, arrange for the counting of the ballots. It was also agreed that the ballots should contain an expression of opinion of the signer of the ballot a sto whether he would be willing, if called upon, to donate any monies to create a so-called war chest to continue the dispute through legal battles.

All of the members at this last meeting voted that they believed it would be desirable to obtain not only restriction of the 70 acres lying west of Tri-State Highway, but a restriction in black and white to the effect that a foundry could not be established on the land which would be taken by Roth. This latter factor, Attorney Wild had not offered to me, but the group were advised I would consult Mr. Wild to see if that could be included in the compromise offer. On June 3, 1952, I spoke to Mr. Wild and he stated that he was of the opinion that he could so offer that additional factor.

As presiding official at the meeting, I proposed acceptance of the compromise and upon vote, 21 voted to accept the compromise and 11 voted no. The compromise, therefore, which we have offered to us is as follows:

The exact mechanics for obtaining the restrictions would be formulated through conferences between Attorney Wild and the writer. The above compromise offer is firm and you may assume would definitely be accomplished. In addition to this, we have the informal statement that the Village Board and the Planning Commission will immediately consider the ingress and egress problems of the 70 acres which would become industrial as well as consider the contraction of our present industrial area referred to above.

The disadvantage of acceptance of this offer of compromise is, of course, the fact we will definitely have 70 acres in light industry with all the attendant problems which have been discussed in the many hearings and which will not be reviewed here.

Assuming we were defeated in our litigation, and it is recognized that the result is uncertain, the advantages of acceptance of the further compromise would be the guarantee that there would not be any further growth of the industrial area which could expand to a total of 140 to 150 acres plus the fact we would have present and active cooperation for proper street planning and possible contraction of our present industrial area referred to above.

"We recognize this is a serious problem for decision. We assume that by virtue of the fact you signed the original petition together with some 2,000 other citizens, you will cast your ballot and before doing so, will give the matter your serious thought. If the majority of you signers of the original petition decide by your ballot to accept the compromise, action will be taken to negotiate the multiple steps that must be taken to put it into effect. If by your ballot the majority decide not to accept the compromise, then the present litigation for a referendum will be continued. Any further expensive litigation pertaining to zoning, for example, would be dependent upon your indication and willingness to contribute monies for such operations. It has been estimated by the various attorneys who have cooperated in this matter that the cost of a full litigation could be between $6,000.00 and $15,000.00.

Please remember your ballot must be posted on or before June 16, 1952, in order to be counted. The ballot must be signed so we can have proper control. An unsigned ballot will not be counted. We must have a cut-off date in order to make this matter practical.

"The majority which decided to submit the compromise outlined in this letter, were motivated by the fact that most people are willing to aid a fight which does not cost them anything. If the ballots demonstrate a general willingness to support a fight, the minority would have additional supporters from the majority, who feel there is a general apathy when the furtherance of a cause required their funds.

"Whatever decision you make, by all means return the ballot. You have an opportunity to indicate whether you will make a contribution from $2.00 to $25.00, or any other amount, which can serve as a guide for future action.

"It is appreciated that this letter is long, but because of the complexity and seriousness of the problem, it was believed that you were entitled to a full explanation. It is recognized even at best, this is a sketchy outline."

Very truly yours,
George S. Hoban

CIRCLING THE TOWN

BY PHYLLIS KNIGHT

More and more Arlington Heights people are reaching the conclusion that as much fun as a summer vacation is, they can do just about the same things in the village or nearby — and enjoy the comforts of home at the same time.

The village offers all outdoor sports facilities at recreation park both for adults and for children. For the younger generation there is a planned program, and everything except swim passes is free.

Tennis lessons, baseball, shuffleboard, craft work — all the activities of a summer camp — are available to the youngsters who participate, and all under the leadership of trained instructors as well. There is an available program for both boys and girls, with even the tiny tots having something special for themselves alone — the free wading pool open each afternoon and evening.

In many of the sports activities tournaments are held at different times through the season. Ping-pong, shuffleboard and tennis champs are all crowned in the various age groups.

A COMPREHENSIVE baseball program is of interest to both participants and to other adults, more the "spectator" type. As a part of the recreation activities, the boys are organized into age-grade teams which play teams of similar skill from nearby towns.

For the under-17 high school boy, the American Legion and George C. Poole, Ford dealer, co-sponsor the Arlington entry in the Legion's national junior baseball competition. In the first round of this tournament, they play the teams from the nearby towns in the district. If they win, they proceed through division and state championship play. All the other teams in the district play a second round in competition with each other and the winner enters the county playoffs.

Many of the boys on the Legion team are members or potential members of the high school's varsity or frosh-soph squads. Summer ball provides them with valuable experience and the "spectator sports" of the village with some good games.

ALSO FOR spectators is the flashy semi-pro baseball team, the Red Wings who use the Recreation park field too. These men play in a fast regional league and offer the crowds exciting sport.

Perhaps the single most important ingredient to a fun-filled home vacation is provided by the large, well-kept-up pool in the park. It's spaciousness affords room for all, and the way in which the pool is run is a tribute to good management. Swimmers are inspected beforehand to protect their health and that of others using the pool.

Afternoons and evenings of hot days, the pool is by far the most popular spot in town. Whole families swim together, taking advantage of special all-inclusive season ticket rates. Individuals can purchase season tickets reasonably too. Incidentally, 1952 tickets are now on sale in anticipation of opening day Saturday.

SWIMMING LESSONS are a part of an Arlington vacation for those who want them. Boys and girls receive free class lessons mornings from Red Cross instructors. There are classes for beginning, advanced and life saving students. Adults may learn to swim, too, but they're charged a nominal fee for lessons.

The numerous tennis courts — both in the park and at the high school — are another popular summer fun spot for adults and young people alike. Here, too, there are lessons available, but grownups, naturally enough prefer a couple of sets on their own.

(And this isn't all — next week we'll continue the discussion

Not an objector appeared. It was the opportunity for them to make any changes desired.

NOW! your home can be Beautiful

DON'T USE PATTERN AGAINST PATTERN

Especially in a small room. This tends to give the room a fussy, cluttered, restless feeling. Remember, everything in your room should be in relation to everything else—as well as in relation to background. It naturally follows that the charm and value of contrast is lost when too many patterns are used.

PLAY UP ONE PATTERN....

. . . against a background of interrelated colors for a dramatic, yet restful effect. A large expanse of flowered—or figured — draperies are usually all the pattern that's needed to enliven a small room. Relieve monotony of too many plain surfaces with texture interest of sofa and chair upholstery fabrics. Plain rugs are best in small rooms.

Please don't be hesitant about coming in and discussing your decorating problems with our friendly staff. It will be our pleasure to be helpful in any way that we can.

Don't overlook the decorative value that bright book jackets offer—especially when arranged on open shelves—or on a tall breakfront. We have several small-scaled breakfronts that are just the thing for smaller rooms. Prices are unbelievably low.

You'll find many uses for a small occasional chair; an occasional living room piece; a desk chair; move into dining room when an "extra" is needed. Choose from several styles.

Favorites for Flavor

By LOIS SEILER

Featured today is a recipe which will glorify cabbage and make it one of the tastiest vegetables you could hope to serve. The cabbage is partially cooked and then placed in a baking dish with alternate layers of cheese and white sauce. The whole concoction is topped with bread crumbs and baked for 20 minutes.

This recipe was contributed by Mrs. Richard Bronwell of 403 N. Douglas, Arlington Heights. For added zest to this dish, Mrs. Bronwell uses Romano cheese along with Velveeta.

Another favorite recipe of Mrs. Bronwell's is one for a delicious rhubarb pie. Her recipe for the filling lists an egg among the ingredients, which will keep the pie from running.

Active in many organizations in town, Mrs. Bronwell is especially busy this year organizing the Antique and Hobby show to be held at the Methodist church in fall. She is co-chairman of the event. Her other activities include being a board member of the Republican Women's club and a member of the social welfare committee of the Arlington Hts. Woman's club.

Scalloped Cabbage with Cheese

1 small head cabbage
2 cups grated cheese
1½ cups medium white sauce
½ to ¾ cup bread crumbs.

Cook cabbage until partially done but not soft. Into a greased baking dish put a layer of cabbage, then a layer of cheese (one-third of the two cups can be Romano, the remainder, Velveeta), and a layer of white sauce. Continue to make layers until all ingredients are used. Cover top of mixture with bread crumbs mixed with a little butter.

Bake in a moderate oven, 350 to 400 degrees, for about 20 minutes or until crumbs are brown.

Rhubard Pie

3 tablespoons flour
1 cup sugar
1 egg, beaten
2 cups rhubarb cut into small pieces.

Make enough pastry for a 9 inch pie shell and lattice top.

Sift flour and sugar together and then add the egg. Beat thoroughly and add rhubarb.

Line pie pan with pastry and pour in filling. Cover with lattice crust and bake in hot oven, 425 degrees, for 10 minutes. Reduce heat to moderate, 350 degrees, and bake 35 minutes longer.

Michael Balmes takes Pat Marchand as bride

St. Norbert's church was the scene of the recent wedding of Miss Patricia Helen Marchand, daughter of Mrs. Theodore Marchand of Roselle, and Michael Joseph Balmes, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Balmes of Northbrook.

Rev. Charles Haefner officiated at the 10 a. m. ceremony which took place May 31. The altar was decorated with white gladioli and candlelabra. Miss Lucienne Singer sang four hymns: "O Sacred Heart," "Ave Maria," "O Lord I Am Not Worthy," and "On This Day O Beautiful Mother," accompanied by Brother Amabilis of St. Mary's, Techny.

A wedding breakfast was held at the Country Fare, Northbrook, for the bridal party and immediate family, and in the evening a buffet supper and reception was held for 200 guests at St. Norbert's auditorium.

The bride wore a gown of white organdy over taffeta, trimmed with lace and rhinestones. A matching halo held her fingertip veil in place and she carried a cascade bouquet of white roses and lilies of the valley. She also wore a diamond-studded cross, gift from the groom. The bride was given away by her uncle, Richard Crosby of Chicago.

The maid of honor was Miss Marie Farrington of Elmhurst. Her gown was of powder blue net over taffeta. She also wore a lace stole and lace Juliet cap and carried a bouquet of yellow daisies.

Best man for the groom was his brother, George Balmes Jr.

The bride's mother wore a peacock-blue tissue faile gown with white accessories and the groom's mother wore a navy blue rayon taffeta gown with white accessories. Both had corsages of pink-fringed carnations.

The newlyweds spent their honeymoon in Eagle River, Wis., and are making their home near Lake Zurich.

Out-of-town guests at the wedding were Mrs. A. Jahr of Elgin, Mr. and Mrs. Jay Foster of Manchester, Tenn., Mr. and Mrs. Marc Bangfort of Calmar, Iowa, the Joe Balmes family of Waukegan and James Balmes of Gurnee, Ill.

The bride was honored at a shower prior to the wedding, given by Ilene Medcalf of Roselle.

The bride is employed as a secretary at the Phoenix London Group Insurance Co. in Chicago and the groom is employed by the M. B. Austin Co. in Northbrook.

Open school for children of migrant workers June 30

A charitable impulse to alleviate the misfortune of children deprived of normal social and scholastic life because of the transient nature of their parents' employment instigated a worthwhile project for the Northwest Suburban Branch of the American Association of University Women.

In March, 1948, a member of the local branch was scheduled to speak on "What the State of Illinois Department of Health has to Offer Our Children." Somewhere in the course of that speech she began to discuss the Mexican children, and the woeful living conditions she saw when visiting them. It was decided at this meeting that the branch would attempt to help these children by conducting a summer school with emphasis on health and education.

The migrant farm workers come to this area from Texas under contract to our farmers. They do not come looking for work—their jobs are ready for them. They are essential to the welfare of the farms, and they are as much members of the community as are any other necessary workers.

Because of the migratory character of their work these American citizens live under severe handicap regarding education. The children, normally intelligent, never feel themselves part of a large group, have a very real language handicap, and are retarded in school. Existing social agencies have been set up to deal with welfare problems of permanent members of the community, but no provision has been made for the itinerant worker and his family.

The school has grown by leaps and bounds during the past four years both in the number of children reached and in the scope of work accomplished. One hundred and fourteen children were registered for the four-week school period last summer as compared to fifteen the first day of the two-week school period in 1948; a school budget of over $1100, as compared to a budget of $19 in 1948.

Two full-time workers obtained through the Home Mission of North America spend six weeks in the area. These workers spend the first two weeks prior to the school period visiting the nearby farms and interpreting the school program to the Mexican families. Aside from the two full-time workers the school is staffed entirely by volunteers from AAUW, high school Spanish students, plus other interested and talented individuals in the Northwest Suburbs.

The Junior League of Des Plaines co-operates by operating a medical clinic weekly, where each child is given a complete physical examination and immunization inoculations when necessary. This service is also extended to the babies too young to attend the school.

The school conducted on an informal basis with a program consisting of English classes, individual reading lessons, music, handicrafts, games and outdoor recreation.

The First Congregational church of Des Plaines will donate the use of nursery school rooms and equipment again this year where the school will be in session from June 30 through July 25.

Joe Dister selected to attend Boys' State

Announcement has been made that Joe Dister has been selected by Arlington Heights high school to attend Boys' State in Springfield from June 22 through 29.

Eli Skinner chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution of Arlington Heights, is sponsor, the chapter's name having been drawn at a recent fourth division meeting of the society in Chicago. This honor fell to Eli Skinner chapter and the high school five years ago with the selection of William North of Arlington Heights. At Boys' State North was elected attorney general and later went on to Washington to Boys' Forum. A June graduate of the University of Illinois, North plans to enter Harvard Law School in fall.

Though only fifteen years of age, Joe will be a senior this fall. He is the son of Mrs. Arthur Nelson of MacDonald rd., Prospect Heights. Active in golf, the radio club and student senate committes, Joe has maintained a high scholastic average, having been on the honor roll for the last four semesters.

Boys' State was originated by the American Legion in 1933 in Illinois. By 1940 the idea had spread to forty states. In Springfield the delegates will elect a governor and fill other offices of state government. The "governor" automatically goes to Washington to attend Boys' Forum with "governors" from other states. Accompanying the governor of each state is a good citizenship delegate who is selected by adult advisers. In Washington the boys get an intimate glimpse of the workings of the federal government.

The purpose of Boys' State is to educate youth in the duties and rights of American citizenship, and to teach the youth of today constructive attitudes toward the American form of government. Since Arlington high school's district, No. 214, is the largest in Illinois, Dister represents a considerable area. The congratulations and best wishes of all his "constituents" go with him to Springfield.

Evening Guild has new president

At a meeting of the board of the Evening Guild of St. John's Episcopal church, Mt. Prospect, last Thursday, Mrs. J. Herbert Haynsworth was elected to fill the unexpired term of office of the president, Mrs. John F. Havard. Mrs. Havard and her family are moving to Carlsbad, N. M., this month. Mrs. Haynsworth served as president of the Guild last year.

This meeting was held at the home of Mrs. R. C. DeZur. Delicious refreshments were served at the close of business, and Mrs. Ralph Van Middlesworth, secretary of the Guild, presented a lovely gift to Mrs. Havard, in recognition of her services to the Guild and with best wishes for the future.

The committee taking charge of the open house include Mrs. Raymond LaCroix, Mrs. George Vitoux, Mrs. Joseph Brandt and Mrs. James Kuykendall.

To be instructor in Japan

Miss Mary Catharine Gaskins, eighth grade home room instructor at the Junior high school in Arlington Heights, has accepted a position as an instructor for the American Dependent school system in Japan.

She will begin her new duties in the fall. A resident of Fairmont, W. Va., she obtained her degree in education from Fairmont State college.

Miss Gaskins feels that this is an excellent way to see the world, and she hopes to eventually teach in Europe.

The Mother-Singers of Pala-tine PTA will stage their second annual spring concert Sunday, June 15, at Cutting hall at 8:15 p. m. in a Hawaiian setting.

Clad in native costumes, hula dancers will wield bamboo sticks and feathered gourds in authentic island style.

New house prices go up, used homes remain level

Higher productions costs will drive the prices of new houses up during the coming months, but the prices of existing homes will remain at about the current level. Joseph W. Lund, president of the national association of real estate boards, said.

"More than half of the real estate boards reporting forecast higher prices for new residential property in the coming months," Mr. Lund said. "Continuation at the present level was the prediction of 39 per cent.

"The outlook for used houses was more varied, but half of the returns indicated these prices were expected to remain the same. The remainder of the communities were almost equally divided in their forecasts of higher and lower prices."

On the question of availability, Mr. Lund reported construction of new single-family and multiple-family dwellings is expected to decline in the months ahead.

Specifically, a lower rate of building single-family units is anticipated by 46 per cent of the communities. Continuation of the present rate is looked for by 27 per cent, while 26 per cent predict a higher volume.

For multiple-unit dwellings the outlook was for a lower volume of construction in 55 per cent of the areas, for a higher volume in 11 per cent, and for the present level in 34 per cent.

Measuring Snow

The Weather Bureau usually measures the fall of snow at the bottom of a standard eight-inch rain gauge, which is essentially an open-ended can, eight inches in diameter and about two and a half feet high. The snow is leveled off to cover the bottom at a uniform depth, which, measured in inches, is the amount of snowfall during a particular period. The snow is then melted and measured, to get the equivalent amount of liquid water in the snowfall.

Good construction defeats wind, say insurance men

These interlocking asphalt shingles were properly applied. Although the wind was powerful enough to blow the complete roof deck off the building, the roofing material stayed in place undamaged.

In Nebraska, where nature has a habit of staging some of her fiercest storms, insurance companies are campaigning to make farm buildings more resistant to wind. This invisible force smashes walls, blows away entire roof assemblies and moves whole buildings off their foundations —but insurance companies say, damage would be negligible if farm structures were properly built.

"When complete buildings or large sections of buildings are damaged is when insurance companies suffer heavy losses," says Henry J. Requartte, past chairman of the windstorm conference committee of the national association of mutual insurance companies. "Lesser damage, such as damage to roofing material, is relatively unimportant.

"Wind easily searches out the weak points in construction. If a few nails are incorrectly spaced, a joint can be pulled apart and this can lead to wrecking of the whole structure. If roof rafters are not securely anchored to the walls, a roof deck can blow off even though the roofing material itself stays in place."

Mr. Requartte, who is president of the Farmers Mutual insurance company of Nebraska, says special construction methods have been developed to make barns and other farm buildings highly wind-resistant.

"Building materials themselves are not the problem," he emphasizes. "The materials will do their job if they are properly applied. In case where a manufacturer furnishes instruction sheets, the instructions should be followed exactly."

To anchor a roof to the walls, ties between rafters and studs should be supplied. Where a ridge board is used, collar beams should hold rafters on one side of the roof to those on the other.

On both new and old asphalt shingle roofs, shingle tabs can be cemented down for extra wind-resistance in windy areas.

When a ridge board is used at the ridge of a barn, the rafters on each side should be tied together.

Diagonal corner braces for walls are essential for wind protetcion. Studs should be continuous from sills to plates. Above the mow floor in a barn, studs should be strengthened with diagonal braces at eight-foot intervals and tied to floor joists.

To make roofing material more wind-resistant, one recommended procedure is to cement down asphalt shingle tabs with quick-setting asphalt cement. Roofing manufacturers also make special interlocking asphalt shingles, which lock together so tightly that the roof covering is, in effect, one piece, and wind cannot rip shingles loose.

Keep evergreens in shape with timely pruning

Early season pruning is better, but there is still time to cut your evergreens down to size. Such decorative shrubs and foundation plantings as yews, arborvitae and juniper can "take it." They have the happy faculty for starting new growth from comparatively old wood.

This makes them more amenable to drastic shearing than the coarse-growing varieties, including the spruce, pine and fir, which require special pruning techniques. Pruning of the fine growing sorts—those with fine twigs and indeterminate growth —keeps them within bounds. There are no seasonal limitations for this. Actually, annual pruning is a must for many evergreens and particularly for foundation plantings. Some gardeners feel more frequent cutting adds to the appearance.

However, a warning that too severe pruning of narrow-leaved evergreens may lead to sunscald before new twigs can grow is sounded by J. W. Christian, area representative of the Davey tree expert company. Drastic pruning usually promotes abundant new growth that is subject to sun scald when the weather is hot and dry. Mr. Christian advises watering for several weeks following a severe pruning.

Evergreen hedges that are ancient and scraggly looking can be improved by pruning but seldom fill in properly at the bottom. Best idea is to plan to replace with young and vigorous plants that can be allowed to expand gradually.

Building a playhouse makes good summer project for hobbyist

Here's a project for the handicraft enthusiast who wants to transfer his activities to the outdoors with the coming of good weather: build a playhouse for the children in the backyard.

A sturdy and attractive structure of that type recently was designed by a teen-age boy for his younger sister. It turned out so successfully that it was featured in a national magazine. Now duplicates are being built in all parts of the country.

The playhouse, measuring 6x6-feet overall, has a wood framework and gable roof. Sidewalls and roof are covered with asbestos-cement board, a weatherproof, fire-safe material. Built on skids, it can be moved to any part of the yard.

The Asbestos-Cement Products Association, 509 Madison ave., New York 22, N. Y., will send plans for the playhouse free upon request.

Check your furnace now

Now that the heating season is over, it's a good idea to schedule an early inspection of your heating plant.

It is best to do this for a number of reasons according to experts in the home heating business. First, if you have had any heating trouble over the past winter, you will still have fresh in your memory those conditions which caused you discomfort or inconvenience so that they can be outlined in detail to the furnace service man whom you call in. As the outdoor weather becomes increasingly balmy, your experiences of the past winter will be easily forgotten and so will your heating problems until the first cold days of next winter bring them to your attention again.

How chrome plate is applied to fine metal furniture

One of the chief reasons for the increasing popularity of metal furniture is its versatility, and some of the credit for that must go to the variety of finishes used. Colorful baked enamel finishes are now used in a variety of interiors, and chrome plating has long been popular in restaurants, offices, hospitals, shops, schools and reception rooms.

The tubular steel is automatically ground and polished before bending and fabrication into frames and parts. Prior to actual plating, each piece is hand-wiped and subjected to a hot caustic bath to cleanse it. This process, called "copper flash," actually leaves a slight copper cast on the tubing. Then the base plate, hot cyanide copper, is applied by immersing the tubular steel in a large tank. The softness of copper permits it to fill in natural pits and microscopic imperfections in the steel, providing a flawless base plate for succeeding coats. After cooling, the copper is hand-buffed to mirror-like perfection.

Then a tremendously hard bright nickel plate is electroplated to the copper, given another hot caustic bath and hand-pumiced by the plater himself. The final step is the application of chromium, which then is given a chrome buff to insure uniformity on all chair frames. Samples of finished frames from each production run are subjected to a 48-hour salt spray test before being passed on for final assembly.

To pursue joy is to lose it. The only way to get it is to follow steadily the path of duty, without thinking of joy, and then, like sheep, it comes most surely unsought.

Good lighting in the bathroom

If you want to keep your family's spirits high make sure your bathroom lighting is designed to help keep them looking their best at all times.

There's nothing mysterious about how to get good light for shaving and facial make-up if you follow General Electric's new light conditioning recipe for bathrooms.

As shown in the photograph above you'll need lights at each side of the mirror and another fixture on the ceiling directly above the wash stand. Fixtures should be placed on each side of the mirror, 15 inches from the mirror center. Vertical centers should be 60 inches from the floor.

When choosing fluorescent use at least 15-watt size for standard white lamps or 20-watt with deluxe white which are more flattering to complexions. Although it is not necessary, lamps may be shielded as in the bathroom picture above. These fixtures with shields which are tilted toward you, offer luxury advantages to your lighting.

Although it is not visible in the picture above the ceiling fixture is mounted about 12 inches from the wall.

Expand recreational facilities in Korea

The Air Force has announced it is expanding its recreational and educational facilities in Korea and called for additional civilian help to do the job.

James T. McAuliffe, air force overseas representative at O'Hare international airport, said hobby shop managers, service club directors and professional librarians are needed. The jobs pay from $3410 to $5060 per annum, with an added 25 per cent paid for duty in Korea. Housing is available and free.

The tour of duty in Korea is for one year. Transportation is furnished at government expense. Mrs. McAuliffe can be contacted at the civilian personnel office, O'Hare international airport, Mannheim and Higgins roads, Park Ridge.

In the future

Farmers will be interested in a lightweight plow which, the maker says, is efficient in plowing at depths up to one foot and permits plowing on the contour and turning furrows uphill without extra trips . . . Window dressing will be more varied and easier with the use of canned "snow" which comes in seven colors and which can be sprayed at the touch of a finger . . . A small wash kit for travelers contains a squeeze bottle full of detergent, a clothesline with suction cups for mounting between walls and six clothespins . . . Housewives' delight: a mechanical mop beater makes it unnecessary to shake dust mop out the window . . . Junior-size mechanical cotton pickers are now available for the 25 to 50-bale farm. It hooks up to the tractor.

Camping days here again for Arlington Girl Scouts.

The first of two Day Camp periods, sponsored by the Arlington Heights Girl Scout Council, opens June 17. This first session, for Intermediate Scouts, will be held daily from 9 a. m. to 3:30 p. m., June 17 through June 20, at Camp Pine near Dam No. 2.

Brownie Scouts will hold their Day Camp at Camp Pine from June 24 through June 27, from 9 a. m. to 3:30 p. m.

Day Camp Director, Mrs. C. Wallrab, and Day Camp chairman, Mrs. Fred Jasper, have arranged for bus transportation to and from camp. Busses will leave for camp at 9 a. m. from Besinger Real Estate office, 537 S. State rd., and from the North school every morning of Day Camp. Returning busses will leave Camp Pine at 3:30 p. m., delivering the Girl Scouts back to Besinger's and North school in the afternoon.

Only 111 of Arlington's 488 Girl Scouts will be attending Day Camp this year because of a shortage of volunteer leaders. The lucky girls who will be attending camp will find a varied program of outdoor activities planned for them, including nature study under the direction of a Forest Preserve specialist and singing and dancing directed by Mrs. Leslie Beckway. Other activities will include outdoor cooking, meal planning, hiking, dramatics and story-telling.

Campers' parents are advised that the drinking water at Camp Pine has been tested and there will be a registered nurse to supervise health and sanitation of the camp. Menus planned by the girls will be supervised by an experienced dietitian.

The girls are asked to bring a cup, knife, fork and spoon with their name imprinted on each article with nail polish. Clothing suggestions are sturdy shoes, slacks to ward off mosquitoes, and sweaters if necessary.

On the first day of camp both Brownies and Intermediates are asked to bring their own nosebag lunches. On succeeding days, the girls will cook their own meals out-of-doors.

Because of the difficulty of obtaining volunteer leaders, the Arlington Girl Scout Council particularly wants to thank those mothers and interested civic-minded women of the community who have given up their time to supervising this year's Day Camp activities.

The four trained leaders who will direct Intermediate Day Camp are Mrs. Lide, Mrs. Frederick Weber, Mrs. A. M. Hall and Mrs. F. E. Raymond. Mrs Henry Wessies has volunteered as a helper.

The Brownies will have as their trained leaders the Mesdames Harold Wiggins, R. J. Burke, James Clark, Edwin Hill, Robert Page, J. Mohl, Elmer Carle, E. E. Carman, E. J. Emory, Clarence Davis, A. Balducci, and Rose Clemmons. Four helpers have volunteered to help these leaders, Mrs. John Husky, Mrs. Tabor, Mrs. Foerster, and Mrs. Edward Shervey.

Legion carnival to feature parade and 'kiddie day'

Arlington Heights American Legion, Merle Guild Post 208, will again sponsor the community July 4 celebration in the form of a six-day carnival and exhibition at recreation park. The celebration will begin July 1 and continue through July 6.

To encourage the young people of Arlington Heights and vicinity to take an active part in the celebration, they have been included in the program.

The children's program will begin July 5 at 9:30 a. m. when the parade will form at the South school. The parade will continue to the new Arlington Heights public library across from recreation park.

Young people between the ages of 5 and 14 years are invited to participate with bicycles, wagons, baby buggies, scooters, or any type of vehicle decorated for the Fourth of July.

A gift will be awarded by the Legion to the young person or group of young people with the most original costumes and the most appropriately and originally decorated vehicles.

At the conclusion of the parade the Legion will conduct its annual kiddie field day with games and contests for boys and girls between the ages of 5 and 14. Prizes will be awarded winners, and all participants in the parade and the kiddie field day will be given free ice cream.

A display of fireworks at 9:30 p. m. will conclude the day.

July 5 will be kiddie day on the carnival grounds, and from 1 to 5 p. m. all rides will be 5 cents.

Some lump-sum social security benefits lost

Some people in this area will have lost their rights to social security lump-sum death payments if they delay making a claim until after the end of this August.

Mrs. Hilda E. Eidman, manager of the Oak Park social security office, directs this statement to survivors of insured persons who died outside the United States after December 6, 1941, and before August 10, 1946. Most of these were men who died in active service during World War II.

"In most cases, those who stand to lose the lump-sum payments are widows or other persons who paid the burial expenses for reinterment in the United States and who have not claimed social security benefits on the deceased person's account," Mrs. Eidman says.

She advises all such people to get in touch with the Oak Park social security office without delay as no lump-sum payments can be made unless a claim is made before August 31, 1952.

Father's Day

Next Sunday, Father, the gay dog, has his day. Being a father four times over, I am somewhat prejudiced as to what are a father's prerogatives on the day dedicated to us fathers.

I shall arise leisurely about noon, awakened by the whir of our lawnmower as my oldest sons cut the grass. I will look upon my unshaven puss with satisfaction, ignoring the omnipresent razor. After a pleasant brunch I will hie myself to the golf course for a bout with the old blood pressure. Afterwards I shall seat myself among my fellows and enjoy something cool and refreshing, mayhap whiling away the time with a game or two of Captain and Crew.

In the evening I shall listen with a bemused ear to the tinkle of cutlery being washed by my stalwart sons whilst I scan the Sunday paper, virginal in its pristine freshness. On the radio, the Lone Ranger will be conspicuous by his absence. Soft music shall emanate therefrom instead. I shall regard the Father's Day presents bought by my sons with their own money, earned during the winter by delivering magazines through belt buckle-deep snow, with profound contentment. Ah, pleasant dream—move over Walter Mitty!

Sign of the Times

Gals who create their own drapes and dresses on their little sewing machines should get a kick out of this. A friend of mine in St. Louis, Missouri, runs a small but livewire, textile bag manufacturing company. Recently there arrived at their offices in Valley Park, Missouri, navy specifications for a cloth, slip-over cover for the back of a chair. Just a simple cover such as you might see in a tearoom someplace. But with the efficiency typical of our armed forces procurement departments, the specifications were on a blueprint 12 feet long by two feet wide! Completely covered with fine print, too.

No single part of your house cleaning is more important, for furnaces are subject to corrosion when dirt and soot and ash dust are left to absorb condensation moisture.

Pipe and flues can actually be eaten through by acids which result when soot and moisture get together.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE CHURCHES

The ancient Christians recorded many instances of the saving and protecting power of God which is available today to modern Christians and will be explained in the Lesson-Sermon entitled GOD THE PRESERVER OF MAN, to be read in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, on Sunday, June 15.

The Golden Text is from Psalms (91: 1) "He that dwelleth in the secret place of the most High shall abide under the shadow of the Almighty."

Bible selections (King James Version) in the Lesson-Sermon include these passages:

"Thus saith the Lord God; Behold, I will take the children of Israel from among the heathen, whither they be gone, and will gather them on every side, and bring them into their own land: And I will make them one nation in the land upon the mountains of Israel; and one king shall be king to them all" (Ezekiel 37: 21, 22).

Selections from "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy, include:

"One infinite God, good, unifies men and nations; constitutes the brotherhood of man; ends wars; fulfils the Scripture, 'Love thy neighbor as thyself'; annihilates pagan and Christian idolatry,—whatever is wrong in social, civil, criminal, political, and religious codes; equalizes the sexes; annuls the curse on man, and leaves nothing that can sin, suffer, be punished or destroyed" (p. 340).

In the Shadow of + + + The Steeple

by William O. McGill

The chaplains at the Great Lakes Naval Training Station invited a number of the clergymen and educators of this area to the base, last week, in order to tell them what the navy is doing about character guidance. The navy has decided that a man of character is a more dependable fighting man and a more cooperative member of the team which is the navy than is a man of poorly developed moral character.

To improve this development, the navy has produced a series of lectures on character development for men in "boot" training. This program has been largely developed at Great Lakes, and is in process of being expanded to take in special service training school.

The six lectures include: 1) an interview with the chaplain for each recruit and a lecture on "Religion in the Navy," usually accompanied by "a fascinating scientific film with a religious emphasis;" 2) a discussion including sex education and "the desirability of practicing self-control and an appeal for fair play in combination with a religious conception of marriage," with a film "To Be Held in Honor;" 3) a second discussion of marriage and family life, with a film, "Are You Ready for Marriage?" (this film was shown to our seminar, and it may be adequate for the youth just out of high school who thinks he wants to get married as soon as he is out of "boot," but it is a naive affair); 4) this lecture and film, "Pulling Your Weight," is an effort to "transfer principles of individual responsibility from civilian to navy life, a method of compensating for the loss of affection and personal interest of the home, and how integration into Navy life is accomplished;" 5) moral principles are discussed, first in relation to a battery of questions of his navy life—these or similar questions will be presented to him again at the end of his recruit training (the statistical evidence shows that there are increases in moral understanding at the intellectual level through the weeks of training); 6) citizenship is presented with a "panorama of American history" in a film "My Country 'Tis of Thee) (prepared by the army), which seeks to develop a consciousness of the "vigilance which is the price of freedom and our glorious traditions;" 7) a further session on religion is being prepared.

SOMEWHERE in the daily press I noted that some criticisms raised by other members of the seminar were to the effect that religion was rather lacking in this program; "any pagan could conduct it," said one of those present. It may be an opportunistic program. Chief of Chaplains Salisburg, I believe, made the remark, "The strength of the navy is in the moral responsibility of leadership and personnel." Character guidance is not religious training, except as a subsidiary phase which the chaplains are equipped to deal with in a way that officers of the line, for example, are not, for their specialization is in another field.

I THINK it was Chaplain Hamilton, the senior chaplain at Great Lakes, who pointed up this difference when he said in conversation, "We are even more enthusiastic about our religious program than we are about our character guidance program; and sometime we should invited the clergymen of the area here to talk about that."

The navy is on record: it wants to discourage personnel from enhancing the reputation of "the fleet's in." Six or seven lectures and movies in ten weeks of "boot camp" may lesson some youth's conception of what it means to be a sailor, but, in the long run, one wonders whether this is sufficient grounding for the development of moral men and women.

(All quotations, except those identified, are taken from the agenda and outline of the Character Guidance Seminar.)

Before the arduous task of cleaning and packing books for removal to the new building, I sort of took inventory in each division of our books to see what needed to be done, and just where to begin.

As I paused for a few moments in the children's division, I could almost hear Dr. Doolittle remarking to the King of Oz: "Things seem very quiet around the library today. I have a feeling something very spectacular is about to take place." To which Mr. Oz replied: "Hadn't you heard? We are being moved to our own quarters in the new Memorial library at 112 N. Belmont ave., just across the street from the park and field house. We will be placed on the new shelves in the children's room where the walls have been newly decorated in aqua with colorful drapes in the huge windows that make our room so bright and cheery." "That is good news," said Dr. Doolittle, and with that they awaited their turn at being tucked away in the carton for the movers.

Going through the classified section the books almost seemed neglected now, after the busy months during the fall, winter and spring when they were being used day after day for reference work for school projects by students. They too will come into their own prominence when they are placed on the shelves in their own room with the reference books for use through the coming years.

Then on to the fiction section where so many patrons like to select books for their pastime reading and meditation. The titles brought many happy memories of hours spent selecting what was interesting, what was new and would brighten the every day living of so many people; authors like DuMaurier, DeLaRoche, Yerby, Maugham, Davenport, and others too many to mention, writers of both old and new books. I almost felt gay as I thought of the new and latest books on their way to the new library, where they will be added to the already hundreds of books now being read.

The young moderns will be delighted to have a section of their very own with old and new books waiting to be read during the summer months for relaxation and recreation. A book is like a friend; one need never be lonely for companionship when a good book is available.

* * *

Finishing my tour I found myself in the closet where so many books had to be stored for lack of space in the past months. What a wonderful historical collection there is for the room to be devoted to displays of this nature—interesting Leslie papers, Munsey's magazine, bound volumes of National Geographic with illustrations of many historical events of years gone by.

Example is always more efficacious than precept.

New warm air system assures more comfort

As a result of a new development in heating design, it is now possible for the owner of the "middle-age" house to enjoy all the comfort advantages offered by the modern warm air perimeter heating system.

Warm air perimeter heating is the new system introduced a few years ago and being installed in a good many of the new homes now being constructed. With this system warm air from the furnace is introduced into the rooms from registers located under the windows along the outside walls—or at the perimeter—of the house. Hence, the name "perimeter" system.

The system was originally developed for the purpose of heating the basementless house. Reason for introducing warm air into rooms at the floor level of the outside walls was that it was found that from 65 to 80 per cent of the heat lost from a house occurred through the outside walls and windows. Room air in contact with these surfaces loses its heat very quickly and as it chills it becomes heavier and falls to the floor causing cold floors and ankle-chilling drafts.

By discharging warm air upwards against these outer walls surfaces and "replacing the heat which is lost, as fast as it is lost, at the point where it is lot," the warm air perimeter system allows no cold air to form. Thus, cold floor drafts are stopped at their source. In effect, the warm air perimeter system establishes a blanket of warm air between the rooms and the outer walls.

Through research and field work it has now been found that all the comfort advantages of the new perimeter heating system can be applied to the home built over a basement or crawl-space at an amazing savings in cost over older methods of heating. This is being achieved by using small diameter pipes to conduct the heat from the furnace to the registers under the windows.

More headroom in basements is also provided with these "small pipe" systems because the pipes can easily be tucked away between floor joists.

Whereas this new "small pipe" warm air heating system can be used in both new as well as old houses, it should be of particular interest to the owner of the older house who is interested in bringing his house up to date heating wise. Slim, narrow registers—some measuring as little as 2¼ inches wide by 14 inches long—can be easily installed in the floor under the windows and are hardly discernible to the eye. Low wall or baseboard type registers which deflect the warm air upward can also be used. The old inside wall registers used with the older system can be used as return air facilities in this new system.

Checking fuel burner a good summertime job

If yours is an automatic fuel burning furnace—using gas or oil—it's a good idea to have the burner checked and adjusted for correct flame characteristics and input. A poorly adjusted burner can waste fuel expensively. Moving parts in oil burners should be oiled.

The flue and chimney should be inspected for any deterioration or blockage. The smoke pipe leading from the furnace to the chimney should especially be checked to see that corrosion has not caused pin holes to develop which will leak products of combusion into the living area of the house.

Journal of a Bird WatcheR

by F. J. FREEMAN

by F. J. FREEMAN

Cornelia and I looked forward eagerly to the many new forms of plant and bird life which we hoped to see in the Southwest. In this we were not disappointed, but our three kids had other expectations. After five days of camping in the Chiricahuas, they had enough and wanted to get on to Denver as fast as possible to visit their cousins and enjoy the delights which civilization has to offer such as movies, swimming and pop. So after a family conference, they chose to go on to Denver by bus while we drove up, stopping off at points of interest.

After seeing the kids off we drove on to the Huachucas where we camped for a couple of days at the Healy ranch and then drove on to Tuscon. The Tuscon desert area is rich in bird life, but we only took time for a short trip along the Santa Cruz river flowing underground at that time of the year through the Papago Indian Reservation. Here we saw the Indians winnowing grain from their hand-made baskets and carrying water jugs on their heads. This was their custom and was not being done to entertain tourists for we were on a dusty side road off the beaten track.

In this area we added within an hour and a half fifteen new birds to our list. One, the Phainopepla, is a slim, silky, black bird about the size of our catbird. It has a jay-like crest and sports large white wing patches in flight. Another bird, the Pyrrholuxia, is like a mottled cardinal, grey and red, with a curved parrot-like bill. We also saw the Vermillion Flycatcher which matches our scarlet tanager for brilliance, the Roadrunner, a comical pheasant-sized member of the cuckoo family and the Gamble Quail with a fancy black topknot like a circus horse's plume.

After leaving Tuscon our next point of interest was Oak Creek Canyon which we reached that evening and where we camped overnight. This picturesque canyon of red rocks with a lively stream running through it lies just below Flagstaff and has been used numerous times as a setting for western technicolors. Where the canyon widens out, the land is used for fruit and cattle raising. The clear running water was the first we had seen since leaving Sante Fe and was a welcome sight.

The next morning we mounted the canyon to Flagstaff on the edge of the Mogollon Plateau. Driving east we passed through forests of Ponderosa pine and as the elevation dropped came out onto the most desolate, uninhabited flat area we had yet seen. We had a late breakfast at Winslow and noted the many Navajos in their velveteen jackets of green, purple or black. They were on their way to Flagstaff for the Fourth of July rodeo and all were loaded with their finery of silver and turquoise jewelry.

Beyond Winslow we hurriedly passed through the Petrified Forest, stopped for lunch at the edge of the Painted Desert and then on again as we hoped to reach the Mesa Verde National Park in southwestern Colorado by night.

Our stay at Mesa Verde was well worth the effort of getting there. Our camp ground was picturesquely situated on the edge of a canyon on a mesa top where in former days the cliff dwellers had tilled the soil. The park has two museums, one interpreting the life of the cliff dwellers and the other dealing with natural history. The rangers here are all students of archaeology, and their conducted tours through the dwellings were fascinating.

After two days at Mesa Verde we drove over the "Million Dollar Highway" from Durango to Ouray, one of the most scenic drives in the state. It derives its name from the gold dust that is in the road bed. On this trip we took pictures of lavender colored mountains, red mountains, gold colored canyon walls, and acres of the long-stemmed blue columbine.

The Black Canyon of the Gunnison just east of Montrose was our next night's camp. After turning off the main road we climbed up onto a bench land where prosperous irrigated ranches were being farmed, and then climbed again onto a mesa top covered with low shadbush. Here the canyon opened up as a 2,000 foot deep gash between perpendicular reddish-black granite walls larded with streaks of white quartz. This was the most primitive camp ground we stayed at and there was only one other couple there. The range cattle came down to the spring-fed pond to drink in the evening and then wandered off into the twilight mooing lonesomely.

The next evening we reached Denver and found that Johnny had high-tailed it back home, Peter had gotten himself a job for the summer at a resort, and Mary was waiting to continue camping with us for another week before she had to leave for home and job.

THE WIFE'S DUTY

Wives should always receive their husbands with smiles, make their homes as agreeable to them as possible, and gratefully reciprocate their attentions. They should study to gratify their wishes with regard to food, its preparation, the custom of the family in dress, manners and deportment.

A wife should never rule or seek to rule her husband, for such conduct degrades both in the estimation of others. Cheerful compliance with his wishes—indeed, the anticipation of them—should be constantly studied. All altercations and arguments leading to ill-humor should be avoided, whether before strangers or in private.

Married life is often embittered by idle disputes, without any real cause for them. Wives should not interfere with their husbands' business, unless their advice is asked. They should never speak of their differences of opinion, nor of the failings and imperfections of their husbands, even to their most intimate friends. In domestic life they should think nothing of a trifle which has the least tendency to interrupt its harmony or give a moment's uneasiness.

THE HUSBAND'S DUTY

Husbands should always regard their wives as their equals, and treat them with kindness, respect and attention. They should never address them with an air of authority, or as a master; nor interfere with domestic concerns, the employment or discharge of servants, if such are required. The wife's reasonable wishes should be cheerfully compiled with. Temper never should be shown at those slight irregularities in the domestic arrangements which will occasionally occur in all families.

If the wife be a strong-minded and prudent woman, she is her husband's best counsellor, and should be consulted in every difficulty. Many a man has been saved from ruin by this course, and many a one ruined by not adopting it. If the husband's circumstances are embarrassed, she should know it, as women who are kept in ignorance of them often expend money which they would not do if they knew the truth.

A wife should never be rebuked or chidden in company, for any little mistakes in conversation, or any other cause.

We believe they are more economical for the young ladies and is one step in the right direction that will ultimately do away with the dress craze for women and will greatly simplify many ladies' wardrobes. New Ideas In Homes

THE CLERMONT has many interesting points to study. For instance, there are ten closets, three of them in the bedroom hall, with space saving wardrobe closets in the bedrooms. By placing a door from the vestibule to the front bedroom this room can be used as a den, study or office, with privacy from the balance of the house.

The front entrance is convenient to the kitchen and all rooms can be reached from the front hall.

Other features include an efficient kitchen with snack bar and dinette, shelves screening kitchen door, picture window, recessed tub and covered entrance.

Exterior finish is wide siding and asphalt shingles, stone facing of living room.

Dimensions are 46 feet by 32. Area is 1,274 square feet, cubage 24,765.

For further information about THE CLERMONT, write the Small House Planning Bureau, St. Cloud, Minn.

● POLITICAL PRIMER

We print herewith a portion of a recent radio broadcast by Walter Trohan. (The material contained in this broadcast is self-explanatory and makes good reading for any American citizen who believes in the America of the founding fathers.

Broadcast of Walter Trohan WGN, Chicago, 6:15 p. m. CDST, May 17, 1952.

A PRIMER OF POLITICS

A is for Asia and Acheson too . . .
And gentle agrarians gory in hue;
B is for bunk and baloney and budget
(With Truman to fix it and Truman to judge it).
C is for communist, inside or out,
Who must always be whitewashed with liberal doubt.
D? — Donald Dawson, or national debt
(And brother, you ain't heard the half of it yet!);
E's for economy (strictly evaded).
While every expense is pumped up and paraded.
F is for Fuchs, who was given Carte Blanche
To blow us to Jericho, root, trunk, and branch.
G is for generals, forbidden to speak
Except in a minor subservient squeak.
H is for Hiss and his traitorous erring —
To those in high places a minor "red herring."
I is for income all shot with inflation,
A deep major illness afflicting the nation.
J is for Jefferson — sorrow and shame
For the things that they gloss with the tag of his name!
K's for Korea, where victory's sin:
Where you always must fight but you never must win.
L is for Lattimore (innocent guy!):
Speak not of him, merely look — and pass by.
M's for Missouri and M is for mink . . .
And things touched (at the best) with a delicate stink; And M's for Mac Arthur who dared to be right — Who stands like a star in the murk of our night.
N is for Nixon; when others were numb
He dared needle and name even Acheson's chum.
O is for Oatis, the man we forgot;
So time marches on and we still let him rot.
P is for Pendergast, plunder, and pelf,
And each politician who's out for himself.
Q is for queers: Take no lantern to find
Among Acheson's boys an item in kind.
R is for rotten . . . and RFC too:
There's nothing too raw if you have the can do.
S is for Stalin, except when you know
That under the steel he is "Dear Uncle Joe."
T is for Truman and T is for truce
(Where the U. S. is carved like a well roasted goose): And T is for taxes and taxes that take the bread from our mouths with a "let 'em eat cake."
U's for the noisy but mousy UN,
And for the U. S. — of course just now and then.
V is for Vaughan and his passion to please,
And his proud happy friends who acquired a deep-freeze.
W's for weevil grown fat in the wheat . .
And Washington full of the wacky elite.
X is for Wallace . . . or is it? Who knows?
(See the odd Mr. President's dull censored prose.)
Y is for Yalta, the place without reason —
One half of it folly, the other half treason.
Z's for the Zanies who help us descend
Toward the Z (as in zero) which lies at the end.

There in the short space of 56 lines you have the sad story of the state of the nation and of the world today. These lines should be pondered by every thinking citizen. They are strong meat, but truth is never a weakling.

● ALL SET TO GO

The Arlington Park Jockey Club is all set for the big summer meeting which opens next Monday. The Arlington meeting is one of the richest race meetings in the country from a standpoint of purse distribution and draws the best horses in the country to compete in the rich stakes and overnight purse events.

The big racing plant is ready for the visiting thousands, it has cleaned, painted and scrubbed until it shines like a new dollar and the track, the paddock park and the infield are a sparkling sheen of green with the added beauty of the little lakes and the thousands of flowers.

The huge racing plant is ready from the back gate to the Post and Paddock Club for the big meeting and they'll be "off at Arlington" Monday afternoon.

Strike? Some horsemen who have seen the prosperity that the race tracks are enjoying this season have got the bright idea that now is their chance to dictate how the tracks should be operated, and practically take over the racing industry just like some unions have taken over some other businessess. Some horsemen are threatening a strike against Arlington Park if certain demands about purses are not met.

The Arlington management have met this demand with the announcement that Arlington will open June 16th, and will race with horses entered by the horsemen who want to race.

Things have come to a fine pass when a bunch of owners of a lot of oat burning flea bags, if it were not for the big tracks, would be racing over the county fair circuits for $200 purses, can get the idea that they can dictate the policy of the big tracks.

Evidently some of the horsemen can't stand prosperity; they want it all, and in grabbing for it they are taking the first steps to kill racing completely and thereby kill the goose that is laying their golden eggs.

The Arlington management has refused to be bluffed, they intend to run their own business and their meeting will open on schedule next Monday with the cooperation of the horsemen who are satisfied with conditions and who want to race.

● ROPE TROUBLES

One of the projects of the Palatine American Legion Post is keeping the village flag flying. Recently they had some trouble in doing this. The flag pole needed a new rope, and in trying to haul a new rope up with the old one the rope broke.

Art Johnson, Legion trouble shooter, then secured the services of a professional high-wire artist. It seems that a troupe of three gymnasts were stranded at a nearby trailer camp, and in order to get the services of one, the whole troupe had to be hired. Some fellow did the pole climbing while the other two lent their moral support from the ground. Just as the new rope was about to be threaded through the pulley at the top of the pole the climber dropped the rope. Then, while the high-wire artist hung up there by a safety-belt the rope was finally returned to him and the job was completed, with a cost to the Legion of $85.00.

And to add to the boys' misery a new flag for that pole had got mislaid someplace and the old one had to be used.

Johnson says, "being trouble shooter and advisor to the boys who get into trouble is some job and I won't be sorry when my time is up and some one else has a crack at it."

● POTATOES

This is a great potato country what with the fine early Ohios from the Red River Valley of the north to the early reds from the gulf coast and Florida, and the California whites from the west coast to the rural New Yorkers and the russets of the eastern part of the country to say nothing of the famous Idahoes of the mountain states, and the cobblers of the central west.

Yes, it's a wonderful potato country, and yet we have just passed through a potato famine due to governmental meddling with controls. Recently the government suddenly took price control off potatoes and the old law of supply and demand got in its work. When everyone expected potatoes to go up for a while at least they came down. Scrubby little potatoes were selling at better than 12 cents a pound; then controls came off and fine big new potatoes were plentiful at 11 cents per pound. Just shows that things can adjust themselves in a hurry if a meddling bureaucracy will only give them a chance.

● FINE CROPS

There are some wonderful stands of winter wheat around this area, fine upstandng fields of the grain that look as if the crop was well headed and would be ready to thresh almost before you know it. The protecting cover of snow last winter seems to have been just the thing for the winter wheat crop. And other seeds, particularly some species of grass and weeds seems to have been well protected also as the farmers' corn fields are showing a wonderful early growth of young grass and weeds, and the boys on the farms are having quite a battle to get their fields clean so that the corn crop can get off to a good start.

Gardeners too are finding that the weeds this year are out to give them a battle, and it surely pays to keep the old hoe going during the early stages of the garden.

Commuters attention

Last week the C & NW Ry proposed an increase. Let us organize and win this fight. Cooperation is our best weapon.

The proposed increase of 38% or any part thereof would be gouging the commuters, and they will if we don't get busy on a large scale to counteract their petition to the I.C.C.

In the past the I.C.C has favored the Railroads and Utilities rather than help protect the public interest, and public interest is weak compared to organized power. Therefore to get for the commuters any serious consideration from the I.C.C. there are some things we must do and do promptly in the order listed below:

1. Everyone write to the I.C.C. protesting the new increase asked by the C & NW Ry.
2. Do the same to Gov. Stevenson, who appoints the commission.
3. Petition your village board.
4. Ask all your local organizations to help.
5 Have your wife, when on the phone, start action along the line.

It is my opinion that any increase would definitely stop the further growth of our suburbs. It may even cause some families to move back to Chicago, this being of interest to real estate men, merchants and village boards, to help and protect the future.

Another thought is that prices in general are holding or on a slight downward trend. If such an increase be granted at a time like this we would be paying the highest rates in history, with a possible decrease in salaries and wages and unemployment increasing. The operating cost for the C & NW Ry. should not have to be increased for the use of its present equipment

The C & NW Ry. does not mention the amounts of freight revenue they earned while using suburban tracks, or what they have paid toward this track usage, all of which is now being charged to suburban riders.

For your own future and the future of our village, please cooperate. Act promptly.

J. Russell Bahr

Not-so-beautiful park

Especially in the springtime people are particularly observant and conscious of natural beauty and care and cleanliness of their home town.

No portion of the town comes into sharper focus than the town green or park adjacent to the railroad station. By June one would think it reasonable to expect a general cleanup should have taken place, and yet the town we like to refer to as "beautiful Arlington Heights" is far from being such.

For several weeks debris of various types has graced the park close to the station. Papers and litter of one type or another are scattered in the park. Liquor bottles adorn the area, and have been present for weeks.

It is not a case of seeking a new town park, spending huge sums of money, but just a case of town pride that has and is so lacking in our town, especially in the more prominent public places.

Are our town officials blind, or hasn't anyone been assigned the simple task of cleaning up public places.

W. S. Hough
Arlington Heights

Petitioner, note

Don't you think you have been just a little unjust or uninformed as to this entire Feehanville school matter?

For instance, do you know that not one of the present school board members were on the board in 1949?

Did you know that the present board was not formed until April of 1950?

Did you know that the Public Service Co. was not in the district as a taxable body until 1950?

Did you know that the majority of the students in District No. 26 were attending the parochial schools in either Des Plaines, Mt. Prospect or Arlington Heights?

We, who have lived in this area, have at all times been able to take care of our own problems and have not needed to take our troubles to outsiders.

Sure, there were, at time, some who were not satisfied with the functioning of the school district. They spoke their piece, as they had a right to do, at the school board election April 2.

Do you know that to operate the school system there are all sorts of rules and regulations the board is compelled to follow?

Operating the school is not like operating your own home. When you want something, you go to the first store where it is offered for sale and you put down a deposit and pay a little cash each month. It is not that easy with a school system.

You first file an appropriation with the county superintendent's office, and if the auditor thinks the district can handle the project, you get it, a year after it has been filed.

I know, as I have had to do this job. Miracles cannot happen over night.

Another thing, you people who are so interested in the welfare of your children as you say, why did you not first ask what you were buying with your home?

What sort of school system for instance?

We did not ask you people to come into this area.

We certainly don't think you have any right to slander school officials who work on a voluntary basis and are doing the best they can with what they have.

As to rersting on any laurels, etc., well you bought a "Pig in a Poke" so if you have any complaints, don't you think you should take them to the realtor?

School board member.

Bouquets

We feel that the success in the recent election with respect to the several propositions involved in the expansion program of the Arlington Heights elementary school system was due in no small measure to the cooperation which Paddock Publications have given in making known to the public the pertinent facts.

It is only when the public is fully informed that it is able to act intelligently. Accordingly, we wish to thank you for your efforts on behalf of the school system.

Quentin road

In "Way Back When" of May 23 there was an interesting article of the early days and the Cady family. Anyone who visits the little Cady cemetery will feel there the peace of long ago. It is difficult to understand why Palatine has done nothing to preserve the memories of its beginning and make the past more real to the present generation.

Even the name of the road I live in has been changed in the last twenty-five years from Quentin to "Quintens." Quentin Road was named after the Quentin family who settled at the intersection of Quentin and Rand Roads. Why does the county insist upon misspelling "Quentin?"

And can someone tell why the short stretch of Palatine road in the village is called Chicago ave.? It only leads to confusion. Why not be proud of Palatine and its early settlers and keep intact what they have left us that is good? We too easily forget our origins.

JUST AROUND THE CORNER

from PATTY McARDLE

Dear Peg:

Well, here I am still waiting . . . little did I think, when we received our invitation two weeks ago, that I would be able to attend the dinner and Tenthouse summer theatre opening last Friday night. But sure enough, due to "baby's" delay, Bob and I enjoyed a gala evening out.

It's so much fun, Peg, to go to a party at the Walsh's home. Janice is one of those people who has a definite flair for entertaining. She is such a gracious hostess and obviously does a great deal of preliminary planning evidenced Friday night by the delicious dinner and perfectly enchanting table decoration. You know how interesting it is to attend a party the theme of which is carried out in the entertainment, food and color and arrangement of flowers and decoration. Well, Janice is a master of this art!

IN THE CENTER of her beautifully set, candlelighted dinner table was a replica of the circular Tenthouse theatre, complete with its candy-stripe, red and white, scalloped top. From out of its rolled up sides sprung slender branches of fragrant, red and white carnations. The design of the Tenthouse was repeated in the large circular cake—bright with its accents of scarlet and white. Decorative touches such as these lend such a gay atmosphere to a party! Following a dinner that left nothing to be desired we hurried to make the 8:30 curtain time of "The Happy Time."

What trials this French Canadian family endured—what with Uncle Louis who imbibed too much, Uncle Desmond who traveled too much and sprightly, little Grandpere who wouldn't settle down to being a Grandpere, all teaching the young son Bibi the ways of the world while sweet, sensible, Scotch Presbyterian Mama tried valiantly to protect him from all his "knowledge." As a matter of fact, although the play was witty and light, there were so many problems to be solved that "The Happy Time" had to wait until Scene II Act III and the "reformation" of the wayward relatives and the promise in Bibi of a proper young man.

THE ENTIRE cast was convincing and entertaining, however I was most impressed with Bibi—Eddy Gilllilan—who, though a very young Thespian, showed a great deal of poise and stage presence besides acting ability in his interpretation of an innocent, curious, sometimes pathetic little boy.

You know, Peg, the whole evening was so pleasant that I concluded "Baby" was just being kind to "Mama" and affording her a nice treat before its arrival. Don't you think so?

My love, Patty.

THE MAILMAN'S CORNER

BY LELAND ELLIS TRUXELL

A preacher comes to take a church, the first charge of his life,
His worldly wealth consisting of two children and a wife;
A battered car which took him through his seminary years;
A head that's full of knowledge; and a heart that's full of fears.

He mounts into the pulpit with a quavvering, husky throat,
Although he knows his sermon is the best he ever wrote,
And every place of emphasis is marked with strictest care,
While down in front his family sits, so expectantly there.

A prayer is said, the Gospel read, and then he starts to speak,
And realizes that his words are low, and somewhat weak;
As people in the far back rows lean forth to better hear,
He hears his loyal wife's whisper, "A little louder, dear."

He soon warms up, his shaking stops, he does quite well, it's true,
Though here and there a sleepy soul is nodding in his pew;
And when at last the sermon's done, he finds, the Lord be blest,
It was the sleeping one who seemed to like his sermon best!

How much a youthful pastor has to learn throughout his days!
He finds the doubtful Christian often has the loudest praise;
That a deacon, with his dignity, his kind and soulful face,
Can sometimes fall, surprisingly, from his Lord's love and grace.

That a rich man may be humble, and a poor man full of pride;
Or that many folks attend his church their sins to better hide;
And that many people give to show their wealth, and social might;
While others give to keep the church, and aid the pagan's plight.

And when the preacher's time is served, his hair, now silver gray,
He prays and hopes the new pastor will see a better day,
When everyone comes out to church to worship God alone,
And, in deep faith, most humbly, their many sins atone.

Bootleg fireworks caused 9 dead, 257 hurt

"Fireworks accidents occurring in Illinois last year were almost doubled because of bootleg fireworks," said Frank H. Woods, Jr., president of the Illinois Society for the Prevention of Blindness. Last year fireworks accidents in Illinois totaled 266, including 9 deaths and 56 serious eye injuries.

That siren Friday only a test at O'Hare

O'Hare International Airport's powerful new warning siren will sound off for the first time Friday, but residents of northwest Chicagoland were told to pay it no heed.

Plans call for the siren to be tested sometime tomorrow afternoon, according to Col. Fred T. Crimmins Jr., Commanding Officer of the 706th Defense Wing at O'Hare. He said the siren is sufficiently powerful to be heard for a radius of several miles.

Announcement of the test was made to prevent persons from taking alarm, Colonel Crimmins said. He added that the siren will be heard occasionally in the future, when it will signal an "alert" at the air base to test the security of the installation.

Drama about Lincoln to be shown again at Salem state park

Townsmen and park employees are busy refurbishing the outdoor theater at the edge of historic, restored New Salem village in preparation for the second season of "Forever This Land," symphonic drama about Abraham Lincoln.

Sponsored by the New Salem Lincoln league, a non-profit organization chartered in 1917 to perpetuate the history and traditions of this famous spot in the heart of the Lincoln country, "Forever This Land" has a cast of 62 persons. It will be presented nightly except Mondays in the Kelso Hollow theater, beginning Saturday, June 28, and ending August 24.

The project attracted an attendance of 52,000 last year and received national acclaim for the excellence of its staging, acting, direction and lighting. The sylvan theater will accommodate 3,000 spectators.

Replicas of structures restored to re-create the actual New Salem village of the 1830's make up the setting for the main central stage which is 60 feet long and 40 feet deep. In addition, to assure unbroken continuity of action, there are somewhat smaller stages flanking the central area.

Now a state park, New Salem stands on a bluff of the Sangamon river, two miles south of Petersburg.

Lawnmower bruises on young trees can be prevented

Trees, especially the smaller ones, are in real need of "safety zone" protection. They are often the victims of countless accidents that are easily preventable . . . namely bruises and cuts from carelessly wielded lawnmowers.

F. C. Carr, field representative of the Davey tree expert company, says the damage is being compounded by the growing use of bulkier power mowers. Actually however, the fault lies with the user and not with the kind of equipment.

Bumping trees often gives them scars that take years to heal over. Of course, it is important to neatly trim and waterproof all bark injuries. There is no need, however, for trees to acquire these lawnmower "purple hearts."

Trees can be adequately protected by accident-proof circles around bases. These areas should extend a foot or more beyond trunk and buttressed roots. Either dig up and mulch with peat moss or dig out and fill with an inch or two of pea gravel. Both methods will keep down weeds and provide free circulation of air and moisture to roots. The lawnmwer will not get past the safety moats. The circles, too, are decorative and add a nice note to the landscape.

If you have neither the time nor the inclination to provide the circles, don't cut the grass around your trees with a mower. Do it by hand with pruning shears

Words Often Misused

The words "enviable" and "envious" are sometimes confused. "Enviable" means arousing envy, and "envious" means feeling envy. "His enviable position made many people envious of him."

Do not say, "He is one of these people who is always getting into trouble." Say, "He is one of these people who are always getting into trouble."

The words "abbreviate" and "abridge" are sometimes confused. We abbreviate words, names, etc., by contraction, omission, or substitution, as, "Maryland" to "Md." and "pound" to "lb." We abridge articles books, lectures, speeches, and sermons. Many dictionaries are abridged.

Do not say, "Do you ever expect to go?" You don't really mean, "Do you ever expect?" You mean, "Do you expect ever to go?"

Do not say, "This man is known universally by everyone" "By everyone" is redundant. Whoever is known universally, is known by everyone.

Do not say, "This chair is more preferable than that one." Say, "This chair is (omit more) preferable to that one."

Words Often Mispronounced

Vagary. Pronounce va-gar-i, first a as in ah unstressed, second a as in care, i as in it, accent second syllable.

Debenture. Accent second syllable, not the first.

Helicopter. Pronounce the first e as in help, not as in heel, and place the principal accent on third syllable.

Artificer. Accent second syllable, not the first.

Fracas. Pronounce fra-kas, first a as in fray, second a unstressed.

Banal. Pronounce first a as in bay, not as in ban, accent first syllable.

Words Often Misspelled

Grammar; two m's and two a's; not grammer. Intercede; observe the c, and the ede (not eed) . Laudable (praiseworthy), able; audible (capable of being heard), ible. Amateur; eur, not uer. Eczema; observe the ecz. The plural form of "right of way" is "rights of way."

Word Study

"Use a word three times and it is yours." Let us increase our vocabulary by mastering one word each day. Words for this lesson:

Prolific; reproducing freely. "He is known as a prolific writer."

Rectitude; undeviating adherence to moral standards. "He has never wandered from the path of rectitude."

Censure (verb); to find fault with or condemn as wrong. "Shallow minds censure everything that is beyond their depth."

Indubitably; unquestionably; certainly. "This is indubitably the course we should take."

Garrulity; talkativeness. (Pronounce the u as in rule). "Anne's garrulity is tiresome to her listeners."

Panacea; a remedy for all diseases; a cure-all. "One's faith in God can be a panacea for all ills."

Vets get increase in pension pay

More than 3,000,000 veterans and dependents of deceased veterans will receive increases in compensation and pension payments under a bill signed by the President on Friday, May 23.

The increases become effective July 1 and will be included in checks which will be mailed at the end of the month, Robert D. Beer, manager of the Chicago Veterans Administration Regional Office, announced.

The President also signed a companion bill increasing the amount of income a person may have and still be eligible for pension payments in nonservice-connected disability and death cases.

UNDER THE OLD limits, an otherwise eligible veteran or widow having an income in excess of $1,000 annually, without dependents, or $2,500 with dependents, could not qualify for pension. These limits have been raised to $1,400 and $2.700, respectively.

Beer said all applicants for pensions whose claims were denied under the old income limitations and who believe they may qualify under the new limitations will have to file new claims for reconsideration on or after the effective date of July 1, 1952. No automatic review of such rejected claims will be made.

The congress, in passing these two laws, estimated they will add $202,460,000 to compensation and pension payments during fiscal year 1953 which begins July 1, 1952.

VA explained that compensation is payable for service-connected disabilities, whereas, pension is payable for permanent and total disability resulting from nonservice-connected conditions.

'TRAV' REPEATS ON WEST SUBURBAN ALL-LEAGUE TEAM

School has closed and Grayslake is officially out of the North Suburban conference and a member of the Northwest. They have been trying to effect this move for several years. In fact, after one year in the North Suburban they petitioned for entrance into the Northwest and had solid support from the North schools of this league. Votes in two different years found a deadlock and Grayslake had to wait until a shift could be made for many schools believed an eight team league is ideal and hesitate to try a set up of nine. We were one of them. The shift which sent Barrington into the North Suburban changed Grayslake's affiliations and they are happy about it.

Grayslake only North Suburban school without a sports championship

Grayslake is the only school in the four years of North Suburban activities which has not won a major championship and the Rams have never been close, usually finishing with Warren at the bottom of the heap. Warren did get one football title but has been a consistent second division team otherwise. Grayslake won the junior varsity basketball this past season and is ready to make their first bid in the new league a try for a championship. It will be remembered that the Rams beat Arlington Heights in the regional tournament and came up fast in the closing stages of the North Suburban cage race.

Over years Crystal Lake strongest in North Suburban

This past season Lake Forest grabbed the major share of sports honors in the North Suburban where powerful Barrington will next fall make their bid. The Scouts tied Crystal Lake for basketball and won football and track while Woodstock took baseball, a sport in which Lake Forest does not compete. In spite of this Crystal Lake is the top team in the four years of the North Suburban. The Tigers, coached by Max Brady and Owen Metcalf, have never finished poorer than second in any major sport. They have won 42 out of 48 basketball games and 19 out of 23 football games.

Ela bids goodby to Bronchos with 8-0 shutout

Barrington closed athletic activities in the Northwest conference in an inauspicious manner losing to their small neighbor, Ela-Vernon 8-0 in a baseball game which gave Coach Mel Eide's Bears a share of the conference championship with Bensenville. In recent years Ela has taken a lot of bad beatings at the hands of the Bronchos so that final goodby defeat handed Barrington was very good for sports morale in Lake Zurich.

Barrington will find their new conference a good deal tougher in football, a little stronger on the average in basketball, much higher caliber in track, and about the same in baseball. We think Barrington will win basketball and finish no worse than second in football next fall for the Broncho coaches are blessed with a wealth of high class returning material.

Twice in baseball once in football for Heights boy

A fourteen man squad was named this week by baseball coaches of the West Suburban league in their annual selection of the annual all-league squad in the diamond sport, including thereon Arlington's Jim Intravartolo.

Selection of "Trav" is not too much of a surprise. He was named last year as one of two juniors on the squad, both unanimous choices for catcher. The other one, Glenn French, didn't make it this time.

TRAV DID IT this year in spite of an awfully slow start in which he didn't gain his first hit until the 16th time at bat. But he was in there playing all the time, using that strong arm and good judgment of his that made him so popular last year.

Last fall Trav was named all-league in football in spite of a lack of any victories for his team. Trav set out to play his best, and was again a unanimous choice.

TAKE AWAY those first 15 times at bat, and you find Trav running very close to identical records of last year. In 1951 he had 17 hits in 47 times at bat for a .362 mark. This year his 16 in 55 rated only .291, but cut off those first 15 'til he found his eye and you have a decent mark.

A year ago Trav hit one homer, two doubles, 14 singles. This year he smashed a homer, triple, double, and 13 singles. Total bases both years total 22. Last season opposing pitchers walked him 11 times, this season seven. Both year Trav led his team in batting.

OTHER SELECTIONS on this year's squad find Paul Fister heading the battery of three pitchers, and rightly so. Others named are Wayne Gieseke of Glenbard and Pat Lira of York. Tied for catcher with Intravartolo is Nat Smith of LaGrange.

In the outfield are Clem Ryan of Maine, Fabian Bayag of Riverside and Mike DeGenaro of York. In the infield will be found Don Vena of Hinsdale at first, John Hoffman of York at second and Dick Weichenhain of Glenbard at short stop.

THE HOT CORNER resulted in a tie of three boys, Don Krenek of York, Don Mazzoni of Maine and Vojta of Riverside. Vena, by the way, is the only lad other than Intravartolo to gain all-league recognition in both football and baseball this season.

Palatine High golf team, which completed the season with a 13-7 record and their third Northwest conference championship in a row, are pictured, left to right, G. A. McElroy, coach; John Goetz, Chuck James, Pete Abramson, Gerry McElroy, and Richard Meyer, watching Captain Tom Smith try an iron shot.

Catcher beats out Ronnie Grace for team batting

Jim Intravartolo won double honors last week for the Arlington Heights baseball team when he was named to the West Suburban conference all-star team as number one catcher for the second year in a row, and edged teammate Ronnie Grace for the local batting championship with a .291 average.

Grace had started fast early in the season, then tapered off as Trav finally got started after almost 15 hitless times at bat. Jim kept hitting strong as the year progressed, finally wresting the Arlington Heights team's batting championship in a final contest Grace averaged .286 with 18 hits in 63 times at bat while the all-league catcher notched 16 safe ones in 55 times at the plate.

BATTING AVERAGES were not too good, as could be guessed by the 6-11 record of this year's nine coached by athletic director Wally Grace. Team mark was .205 with eight boys gaining nary a hit in a total of 27 times at bat.

Number three man was John Eakins with 13 hits in 52 times at bat for a .250 mark. Only other man to be over the .200 figure was Hans Schmidt with .236.

IRONICAL NOTE was the number of walks given Leon Nolte and Wayne Hesch. The two boys with .192 and 189 averages were passed 12 and 11 times The "Big Four," leading hitters, were granted 7-5-7-8 walks.

Two regulars, Intravartolo and Schmidt, played every inning, 112, for the Cardinals. Grace and Eakins competed 110 and 109 innings, missing only two and three against LaGrange. Other three regulars seeing action were Hesch 107 innings, Lynk 103 and Dassonville 100.

PITCHING RECORDS find Bob Simmons winning five and losing six for Coach Wally Grace. In 80 1/3 innings he allowed 64 hits, walked 44, and struck out 102. 19 earned runs being scored. That's better than one strike out and less than one hit allowed per inning, good in any high school league.

Tom Meyer ranked second in innings, pitched with 20, but was least effective, losing three games. Forrest Laude was also charged with one loss with Harry Munn notching an even 1-1 slate. Meyer fanned 14, walked 20 and permitted 26 safeties.

ARLINGTON'S RECORD included wins over Hinsdale, Glenbard, Riverside, Maine, York, and Leyden. Closest battle was the twice-played Downers Grove affair where the scoreless 12-inning affair was stretched to seven more frames before Arlington lost, 1-0, in the final inning after two were out.

A little brighter outlook is in prospect for Heights with the frosh-sophs setting up a 4-4 record and the frosh nine carding a 3-3 slate. Both yearling teams were led by Coach "Bus" Ormsbee.

FUTURE OUTLOOK for Arlington sports is slightly better next year with the following season perhaps still brighter. Only varsity teams on the black side of the ledger at Arlington were track (5-4) and golf (14-4). Otherwise it was 22-58 with the gridiron bringing in nary a win for the seniors. Cross country was close behind for this dubious honor with one win, eight losses.

But the younger teams had better records. The frosh football squad ran thrugh six games undefeated. The frosh-soph cagers rang up a 13-7 slate, the golfers 2-1.

In frosh basketball it was 6-6, while frosh-soph wrestling was 4-1. In track the frosh-sophs were also head of the game, 5-4. All in all it was a year of 89 victories against 111 defeats, plus five ties for the nine man coaching staff at the high school.

HONORS WON during the year included naming of Jim Intravartolo to both football and baseball all-league teams, naming Jay Vawter to all-league basketball squad, West Suburban golf championship, seconds for the track teams in the Palatine Relays and the conference frosh-soph meet, runner-up position in the state wrestling tournament by Norbert Leckband and Wayne Brumm's no-hitter against Woodstock for the freshmen.

ARLINGTON BANK moved into a tie for third by taking 8½ from Black's Memorial. Art Franzen gained three for the former with a 44-13-31. Clarence Nelsen earned two of the 3½ scored by Black's.

Len Dunteman gained three for his team, but it took only four from Arlington Bowling. E. Simmons, S. Luczak, and C. Staadt earned two each for the latter team.

Wil Dearie scored three for Lingren's, which team took 7½ from Tody's Lounge. Pete Chimes and Len Arnold scored two each for the latter.

Lohr's Pharmacy took seven from Schiller Carpet to maintain the league lead. Bud Rapp scored two for the former and Pat Kelley earned 2½ for the latter.

Many members are now on vacation, creating a necessity for quite a few alternates. It is requested all alternates come out to play, if possible.

After 26 years

Coach Wally Grace steps out of the box

by BOB PADDOCK

The usual statistically-minded Wally Grace "forgot" 26 years of figures this week as we queried him about details of that final game of his baseball coaching career, the 8-3 loss to Glenbard.

Wally is stepping out of coaching baseball, his first love, in order to properly maintain his office of athletic director at Arlington Heights high school. His boys, who knew it was "Pappy's" last game, tried hard to give him a victory but to no avail. Five errors coupled with failure of relief pitching made it all Glenbard Wednesday at Recreation park.

WHAT HURTS this reporter, who has been dealing with Grace seven school years, is Wally's refusal to rattle off the statistics with which he has always been associated. If a player ever wanted to know the last time he hit a clean single to left-center in a high wind and under sunny skies, the mentor had the answer.

But when queried on "best years, most crucial ball game, best team, most decisive victory (and loss)," Wally remarked only "it's done, it's finished, let's look to the future."

BUT WALLY dropped out of the active coaching picture the way he wanted. There was no band, no speeches, no fanfare, no mike at the plate, no luscious automobile, no crowd.

Only one man, Lloyd Meyer, former player now performing on the diamond for Carthage college and for the semi-pro Redwings, who even as much as shook Wally's hand. "Congratulations on a fine 26-year record of baseball, coach" remarked Meyer. And that was that.

WE DO REMEMBER some of Wally's statistics given in interviews of past years, a won-loss record which would gain admiration of any baseball coach, anywhere.

WALLY GRACE

There are more than 300 victories in his book, and less than 100 losses. That's better than a .750 average. No team of Grace's in the four schools where he coached the past 26 years ever dropped more than three contests in one season, until about four years ago.

There are 17 trophies scattered about the state attesting to Wally's teams, including two 16-0 undefeated seasons prior to establishment of state diamond tournaments.

BUT THE REAL trophies, asserted Wally Monday, "are in a man's heart as he looks back over the years of coaching hundreds of boys, in the cards he gets at Christmas from former players with special messages. You remember the 'important' losses of the time that served only to teach teen age boys that there must be defeats as well as victories, and helped make men of them."

What about next spring, when coaches' thoughts lightly turn to baseball? "If Mohammed can't go to the mountain," laughed Wally, "perhaps the mountain can come to Mohammed."

Pros. Hts. Appliances takes lead in Roy Roy league

Prospect Height Appliances took over the lead by beating Michael's IGA, 6 to 1. Al Lohr was low net for the Appliances with a 32.

Cokenower of the L'Nor Cleaners team still has a clean sheet. He defeated Stan Fill of the Prospect Heights Pharmacy team in a closely fought match. Hans Adler lost to Carl Berlin and the Park Ridge Stop and Sock team was as cool as the Michaels IGA team. Maybe Adler had too much on his mind as he is leaving for Sweden Wednesday morning for a 3 weeks visit with his parents.

Cleopatra Stakes headlines race track opening Monday

Glistening in its gleaming new coat of white, the mammoth stands at Arlington Park will witness Monday for the 26th time, the opening of another season of Arlington racing. This is the greatest of all Arlington seasons. Three $100,000-plus races dominate the program. Three of its events are the richest of their kind in the world. America's leading stables, with the champions and budding champions of racing, are already on the grounds or heading this way.

The opening day program will center on the running of the $15,000 added Cleopatra Stakes, to be followed by the Wednesday renewal of the $15,000 Primer Stakes, and on Saturday with a double-header program — the $15,000 Pollyanna Stakes and the $20,000 Warren Wright Memorial.

THE ARLINGTON opener begins the coordinated Arlington-Washington Park season. Over $2,500,000 in stakes and purses will be distributed. It represents the richest summer racing program offered anywhere in the world

Once again, the championship-determining aspects of the meeting are apparent. For the second successive year there is a different winner of each of the triple-crown events, with Hill Gail accounting for the Kentucky Derby, Blue Man for the Preakness, and One Count making the final score in the Belmont Stakes

This confusion among the nation's 3-year-olds will probably be resolved before the Arlington-Washington season comes to a close, the horse or horses coming home in front in the $155,000 Arlington Classic, and subsequently the $155,000 American Derby, will have strong claim to 3-year-old honors

FOR THE 2-YEAR-OLDS, the Arlington Futurity will go postward this season with a value of $110,000. The 2-year-old fillies run in the world's richest juvenile filly race, the $70,0000 Arlington Lassie Stakes.

The program for the older horses is spearheaded by the July 26 running of the $150,000 Arlington Handicap.

A total of 27 stakes races, ranging in value from $15,000 to $170,000, will be run during the coordinated Arlington-Washington season.

The stars of the meeting will embrace the top contenders of every division of racing. Calumet Farm is already on the grounds, with Hill Gail; the leading 3-year-old filly, Real Delight; and the stakes-winning 2-year-old filly, Bubbley.

Dixiana's Sub Fleet, Marcador, Armageddon, Princess Lygia, and Tom Fool are among the other leading three-year-olds on the roster of contenders.

THE HANDICAP division is headed by William Helis' Spartan Valor, who has dominated the older horse contingent throughout the year.

Leading stables, in addition to Calumet, Dixiana and William Helis, include Brookmeade, Me., Chance Farm, Greentree, Ada L. Rice, William Goetz, Rex Ellsworth, A. G. Vanderbilt, F. W. Hooper, Allison and Prestridge, Cain Hoy stables, and many others.

The rush of workmen to prepare the track for its gala opening is concluded. The stands have been painted a glistening white, with dark green trim.

THE JOCKEYS' quarters have been greatly enlarged and refurbished. Beautifully tiled showers and steam rooms, tiled floor in the dressing quarters, and attractively appointed recreation room complete with billiards, table tennis, shuffleboard, television and library will greet the saddlesmiths at the Arlington Heights oval.

The beautifully landscaped, richly planted grounds, are ready to serve as the setting for the most noteworthy season to Arlington history.

Rival dairymen head list of jobs slated to keep coaches eating during the summer

In the hallowed halls of Arlington high coaches "Bus" Ormsbee and John Ligon are the best of friends, but the ninth of June marked the end of that friendship as the two mentors took on "civilian" jobs in their endeavors to continue that silly habit of eating during the summer.

They're milkmen for rival dairies in Arlington Heights. John will be driving a truck for Arlington milk company while Ormsbee will be an early riser for Dunteman dairy. They've both sworn to once again resume their friendship Labor Day.

HEAD MAN of the Arlington Heights sports department, athletic directcy Wally Grace, will again entrain for Camp Kawaga Minocqua, Wis., where he is boys' counselor. His stay during the summer will include the annual canoe trek into Canada.

Curtis Larsen will spend the summer at the University of Illinois where he is working for his master's degree in education.

Russ Attis, track and cross country mentor at the school, will help direct recreational activities for the local park district.

WORKING AT the race track for the 13th year (he must have started young) will be Bill Beckman.

Still looking for meal tickets for the summer are Ray DeGreeff, George Torhan and Gaylord Hughes. All three rate construction work as the most appetite-provoking and perhaps they're right.

Maurice Klotz will be out to gain a sun tan on his receding hairlnie, either in New York or Mexico.

UP AT PALATINE Dick Welty will once again be directing the park play program while attempting to keep his second year lawn growing in Palanois Park.

Eugene Moylan will be attending summer school at Drake university in Iowa. He rates Palatine summers as too cool and prefers summer in the tall corn.

Claude Bailey, since the fold up of the summer high school baseball loop, will be directing the Palatine Junior Legion ball team in its first year of competition.

G. A. McElroy, who swears he isn't golf coach but merely "golf observer," will be earning his bread and butter as principal of the high school.

Redwings beat Chgo. police, 7-4

Arlington Redwing semi-pro baseball team added another victim to their string Sunday when they beat the Chicago Police, 7-4. This made it 3-1 for the season.

The local nine, coached by Elmer Kirchhoff, has two games slated for the next few days with the Chicago Police coming back to Recreation park for a return game Thursday evening, June 12, at 6:45 in a twilight affair, and the Puerto Rican Stars of Chicago showing up Sunday at 3 p. m.

TALLYING in five of nine innings paid off for the Redwings Sunday, offsetting a big three run sixth for the Chicagoans. Reilly and Stretton twirled for Arlington, the latter taking over in the sixth.

The Redwings scored in the second when Pete Groh was on base on a fielder's choice, went to second on a single by Stang, and scored on an error. In the third frame they scored three runs on a single by Meath, an error, a hit batsman, a single by Schiewe, a fielder's choice and a single by Stang.

WILLE HOMERED in the sixth. Wasco singled in the seventh for Heights, going to second on Simpson's sacrifice, and scoring on Groh's safe blow. In the eighth inning O'Shaunessy singled, went to second on an error, and tallied on Wasco's hit.

The Chicagoans scored one run in the second frame on a triple and an error. In the sixth Cornhillesen walked, Lowy doubled, Godlewski singled, Klemchuk tripled, Glavin singled and Bach walked. Three runs scored.

Gene Wasco, who has played fine ball at shortstop for the Redwings, will be lost for six weeks. Gene, in the marine reserves, has gone into summer training.

Gordon Iverson named DeKalb track captain

Gordon Iverson, junior trackman from Lake Zurich has been chosen honorary captain of the Cardinal and Black runners from Northern Illinois state teachers' college at DeKalb.

A two-mile specialist, Iverson's performance this season earned him 29 points in seven meets. He won four firsts and three seconds, while his time dropped steadily from an opening 10:35 till he conquered ten minutes in his last outing with the Huskies.

It was Iverson's last season with Northern, since he is planning to enter the study of animal husbandry.

Bob Baker of Arlington Hghts. was awarded a letter in baseball at DeKalb.

Commissioners take first in Prospect golf

Last Tuesday Commissioner Wm. Busse's team decided it was the most beautiful night in the year. They won ten points and climbed to first place in the Tuesday division of the Mt. Prospect twilight golf league.

The K. R. Whitton team which had occupied first place by one point played well, won eight points but the inspired Busse team nosed them out.

It is amusing at this point to repeat the speech of Mr. Kruse at last year's golf banquet. He said he liked his team to finish either first or last, since in that way he received the most publicity. He must be very happy to know that the Henry Kruse Schlitz team is now very solidly entrenched in last place.

Despite the perfect weather, only five birdies were scored in Tuesday's play. Bob Manchester, Harry Grimm and Bob Louthain birdied the 15th. Larry Spalding birdied the 10th and T. C. Taylor picked the 16th for his birdie.

In the Wednesday division Busse Motors strengthened its hold on first place by taking 7½ points away from Kirchhoff Insurance the ninth place tenants. In the battle for second Illinois Range personally pushed Van Driel's drug store down a notch and they themselves moved into the No. 2 slot. Other standings in the Wednesday division remain approximately the same as last week.

Birdies for the evening were scored by Don Sporleder on the 4th at the Mt. Prospect country club, Elmer Schmitt on the 16th, Bob Virgil the 13th and Slugger Lange on the 7th.

At the 19th hole bull session the concensus of opinion on Slugger Lange's birdie would indicate that the boys suspect his wife, Pat Lange, of giving the greens a texture and moisture test before league play begins. The putt that was canned for a bird was stroked from the upper terrace of the 7th and the result was just a little short of phenomenal.

baseball in the North Suburban conference under the coaching of Guy Curtright, former Chicago White Sox outfielder. This year the Blue Streaks lost their opening game and took all the rest as Don Peacock pitched six straight victories and Chuck Sahs clubbed the ball at a .500 clip. These two were the only regulars back from the team which won a year ago and took the summer league championship. . .

It will be American Legion Junior baseball for Palatine boys this year with the foldup of the Northern Illinois summer league. The Legion and Lions who cooperate so nicely in running a big money making carnival have agreed to jointly sponsor the junior Legion team with Claude Bailey, high school coach, directing play . . . One of the big sporting events of this suburban area is the state semi-pro baseball tournament held annually at Elgin. The tournament this year will be the 17th and is scheduled to open July 10. . . Dave Logan of Barrington is among the Chicago district qualifiers playing in the National Open golf tournament at Dallas, Texas this week. Gordon Iverson of Lake Zurich was captain of the Northern Illinois State Teachers College track team this past season, scoring 29 points in seven meets running the two mile. . . Bill Klaus, former Grant high baseball star, who had a tryout with the Boston Braves this spring, is back with Milwaukee where he starred last season. Klaus is hitting the ball at a pace pretty sure to give him another chance at the big time.

Albert Dittman, former Marengo athletic coach, is to be the new principal of the Antioch high school. Dittman has been principal at Marseilles the past five years and was picked from among 75 applicants. . . Don Buenzow, Palatine's six foot seven cage center, will be a forward candidate at Dayton university next season. Buenzow has a very good athletic scholarship there. Kentucky and Tulsa also offered Buenozw scholarships but he chose Dayton. . . William Dowell, who won four letters and captained the Carthage college track team and played end on the grid team, has been hired at Palatine high to teach mathematics next year. Dowell has taught math and physics and assisted with sports at Mt. Morris, Illinois the past two years. He is working on a masters degree at the University of Colorado this summer.

James Brown, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Brown, 102 N. Wille st., Mt. Prospect, has recently been awarded a spring sports letter at Lawrence college. Mr. Brown received the award for his participation in golf.

Palatine Motors cops league opener, 8-1

Palatine Motors opened their Northern Illinois fastball league season Friday against Highland Park and won, 8-1.

It was a great victory for the Palatine nine as Highland Park is a highly rated team. Dick Heiden, Palatine's pitching ace, went the full distance, allowing just two hits and an unearned run in the ninth inning.

The Dodge-Plymouth boys started their scoring parade in the third inning on a tremendous homerun by Whitey Heferin, the ball traveling about 300 feet in the air.

IN THE SIXTH inning the motor boys pushed across five more runs, the big blow being a double by Johnny Majewski with the bases loaded. In the same inning Palatine squeezed across two more runs on beautiful squeeze bunt by Ed Kinch and Bob Junghans.

The all around play and spirit of the whole team was great. Majewski, Jungkans and Wickersham made Heiden's job a lot easier with some sparking plays.

Palatine had eight runs and six hits, Highland Park one run and two hits with three errors.

SATURDAY EVENING the Palatine Motors softball team travels to Evanston for their second league game. Playing for Evanston are two former Northwestern football stars, Don Burson and Alex Sarkesian.

Sunday the Motormen will play host to Tri-Signs of Des Plaines. This should be a highly spirited game because several of the Tri-R boys are former Palatine team members.

Game time for both contests is 8:45.

Tickets on sale for Illini football

Mail order sale of tickets to University of Illinois football games during the 1952 season opened Monday, June 9, George Legg, ticket manager of the athletic association, announced.

Legg's announcement coincides with mailing of 90,000 colorful orange and blue brochures containing ticket information which are being sent to alumni and general public throughout the nation.

THE ILLINI have a home schedule of three Big Ten games with Purdue, Ohio State, and Northwestern, and two non-conference tilts with Iowa State and University of Washington. On the road Illinois has games scheduled with Wisconsin, Minnesota, Michigan, and Iowa.

Orders may be placed for season tickets, guaranteeing a good seat and the same seat for all home games, and for individual game tickets both at home and away, Legg said. Season tickets are priced at $18, single games both at home and away are $3.60 with exception of the Illinois-Michigan game at Ann Arbor, which is $4, and the Illinois-Iowa contest at Iowa City, which is $3.50.

THE COMPLETE 1952 schedule:

Arlington drops final to Glenbard

Arlington's baseball squad ended the season with a 6-11 record after dropping their final game of the year at home against Glenbard, 8-3, Wednesday. It was simply a case of relief pitching again failing after Bob Simmons had been removed in favor of a pinch hitter in the bottom of the sixth.

Simmons, with just one day of rest, was not up to his usual form, and was shaky in both the fourth and fifth frames. He settled in the sixth but with Heghts just one run behind Coach Wally Grace inserted Bob Reed as pinchhitter to no avail.

Tom Meyer took over but walked two, gave up one hit, and was relieved by Forrest Laide with three runs charged against him.

IRONICAL SITUATION prevailing in after-game statistics show Heights winning in strikeouts, 14-7 (Simmons fanned 12), and giving fewer walks, 10-5 (Simmons favored three). However, the locals also led in errors, 5-1 and were behind in hits, 9-4.

Glenbard drew first blood the top of the third on hits by Corrigan and Weichenhain and an error by Grace. Arlington retaliated with Nolte's homer to deep right.

In the fourth walks to Hesch, Lynk and Nolte, plus two fielder's choices put Heights ahead, 2-1.

BUT THAT MARGIN was short lived. Glenbard scored thrice on walks to Gieseke and McCrary, hits by Weichenhain, Wesley and Ebeling's triple, a sacrifice by Corrigan and a hit batsman.

Arlington made it 4-3 when Intravartolo singled home Nolte who had walked and advanced to second when Roger Thomas walked.

The big seventh was next for the Bards with Slater and Wesley walking, after which Vorbau flied to Schmidt and McCrary fanned. Hollebeck then doubled to left, scoring Slater and Wesley, and Laude replaced Meyer on the mound for Heights.

Gieseke greeted Forrest with a double to center, scoring Hollenbeck, and scored himself when Corrigan was safe on Lynk's error. Weichenhain was safe on Thompson's error but Ebeling struck out for the final out.

Bears sign Jim Lesane

The Chicago Bears added another promising rookie to their imposing array of new stars today, with the signing of Jim Lesane, speedy halfback from the University of Virginia.

Lesane, 21 years old, stands 5 feet, 10½ inches and weighs 175 pounds. He was a member of the Cavalier track team and has been timed in ten flat for the 100 yard dash. The new Bear, who hails from Raleigh, N. C., was rated one of the outstanding defensive halfbacks in the nation last fall.

As a defensive back he intercepted eight enemy passes in 1952, one for a touchdown. Lesane was credited with six interceptions the previous season.

He was fourth in the nation in punt returns, with a total of 397 yards and an average of better than 11 yards in 1951. Opposing teams described him as the "most dangerous runner" in the Southern Conference.

"AND THIS IS THE LITTLE WOMAN.

Bratton-Castellani bout at Stadium June 18

Johnny Bratton returns to Chicago, the scene of most of his greatest victories on June 18 when he squares off with middleweight Rocky Castellani in a 10 rounder at the Chicago Stadium.

Castellani won a thrilling 10 rounder from the Brat in Madison Square Garden last month and the Brat is out to avenge the loss. Johnny won the last three rounds decisively, but his slow start and Rocky's slugging style was too much of an advantage to overcome. He lost the split decision.

Johnny still hopes to get another shot at the welter title which he held for two monhs in 1951 after winning it by decisively beating Charlie Fusari, at the Stadium.

Castellani, meanwhile, has slugged his way to prominence in the middleweight division. One of his recent victories was a 10 round decision over Gene Hairston who is the No. 2 middleweight at present. He has lost only four fights in 40 as a professional. Rocky is 26 and hails from Lucerne, Pa.

Carrot weevils can be controlled

Be prepared to treat your carrot plots for carrot weevil infestations this year, suggests Carl F. Mees, Cook county farm adviser.

Mees explains that up to a year ago no recommendations were made for the control of this insect other than rotation of the crop, isolated planting and late planting.

J. M. Wright, assistant entomologist of the Illinois History Survey, now recommends the use of DDT, as either a dust or a spray. Mix the spray according to directions on the can, and make the first application when the carrots are 1½ inches tall. Two or three additional applications are recommended at about weekly intervals.

The destructive carrot weevil, once found only in a small area near East St. Louis, has managed to spread all over Illinois in the past 20 or 25 years.

Price control a political game says economist

"Politics, not economics, influence the request for price control extension," Earl L. Butz, agricultural economist at Purdue university, said.

Butz addressed more than 500 Illinois farm supply company shareholder representatives at a meeting here. Farm supply is an affiliate company of the Illinois agricultural association, the statewide farm bureau organization with more than 190,000 farm families as members.

"The current request of the administration to extend and enlarge the powers of the OPS is dictated more by political considerations than by economics," Butz declared.

The farm bureau representatives heard Butz say, "The basic question is whether we want to distribute the food and other supplies we have by using the price system we grew up with, or by using an artificial method of distribution controlled by somebody in Washington.

"IF THE OFFICE of price stabilization were allowed to roll back beef prices as they contemplated a year ago, or potato prices as they are doing now, the inevitable result would be to drive beef and potatoes under retail counters instead of on top," the economist continued.

Using potatoes as an illustration of what would happen, Butz said that "all potatoes suddenly became seed potatoes and moved at substantially higher prices.

"We did roll back the prices of beef in 1945-46, and it all went under the counter and disappeared into the black market. We didn't like it. We wouldn't like it again, either.

"HOWEVER, the memory of many of us is so short that we will espouse any political 'cure-all' that seems to promise 'more meat at cheaper prices.' It won't work now any better than it did in 1945 and 1946," he continued.

The speaker pointed out that within the last month the government has:

1) Relinquished the voluntary credit control program which had been imposed on lenders.
2) Abandoned regulation W.
3) Exerted strong pressure to relinquish regulation X which limits the amount of borrowing on home construction.
4) Initiated various other counter-deflationary measures.

BUTZ COMMENTED that it is confusing to see the administration simultaneously exert strong pressure for continuation of authority to impose price ceilings and control distribution in view of these actions.

The economist maintained that the economy is in a period of relative stability, and that the need for price controls over foods and other consumer goods no longer exists.

Chicago stock show prize list $100,000

Premiums which will total over $100,000 were approved for the 1952 international live stock exposition and horse show by directors of the show at a recent meeting in Chicago.

The dates of the 53rd annual exposition are November 29 to December 6 and it will be held in the International Amphitheatre and in a large area of the adjacent Chicago Union Stock Yards.

Prize lists, totaling $10,000 will be offered each of three beef breeds—in the Aberdeen-Angus, Hereford, and Shorthorn purebred divisions—and a $3,500 cash prize list was established for purebred Polled Shorthorns at the coming Exposition.

Additional awards, totaling many thousands of dollars are provided for the individual steer classes of the show and the carlot fat cattle division, leading competition of its kind in the country. A prize list was also set up for the short-fed carlot cattle classes, introduced at last year's exposition after a lapse of many years.

Farmers Take a Walk—And It's A Long One When Carrying Water

By IRA MILLER
Farm Electrification Bureau

Nothing's drier than statistics—unless they affect most of us personally. And in this case they do. For the U. S. Department of Agriculture reports that 97% of the nation's farmers do not have electric water pressure systems outside their homes.

FARMING'S TOUGH ENOUGH—but hand pumping makes it tougher.

True, many of these farmers do have non-pressure systems of some type. But hundreds of thousands still pump and carry water by hand for their homes and service buildings. That's quite a chore, since each year 100 hens will drink 1,500 gallons of water; four hogs, 9,000 gallons, and four milk cows, 52,000. If you add the water requirements for the average farm kitchen to this total, the annual needs will increase by another 20 to 30 tons.

What can an adequate supply of water do for farmers? Just this: increase egg production by 8 to 10%, boost milk production by 20%, help beef cattle to put on weight faster, and increase garden production by as much as 50%. Makes sense when we realize that milk is about 87% water; eggs, 73%; lean meat, 70%, and vegetables from 80 to 90%.

Maybe you don't think a pressure water system saves you time and energy. Here's the answer: it is estimated that a farm family of five will walk about 340 miles a year to pump and carry water for the house and service buildings. This typical farming operation includes 5 cows, 3 hogs, 300 laying hens and 3 horses. The water pumped totals 150 tons annually, and the distance it is carried—in 12-quart buckets—averages 50 feet per trip.

This will give you some idea of the advantages of having a pressure water system—and the disadvantages of farming without one. Also, it should caution prospective purchasers about getting one which is adequate for their needs. Here's a rule of thumb to help in selecting the proper pumping capacity: estimate your daily needs for water, then plan to install a system capable of supplying that amount in a 2-hour period.

Because water systems are important factors in fighting possible fires, connect the pump to its own circuit. The pump should be located so that it can be serviced easily and is protected against cold weather. You'll have your water system for a long time—so plan wisely. Get a pump of the right capacity for all future needs; start in a small way, if need be, and add to your system as time goes on.

LAW on the FARM

Some facts about soil conservation districts

Soil conservation districts have been functioning in Illinois since July 1938, when the Shiloh-O'Fallon district was organized in St. Clair county. At the present time there are 95 districts. They include all the farmland in Illinois except that in Lake, DuPage, Sangamon and Logan counties and in the southern portion of Cook County.

There are many mistaken notions about the nature of a soil conservation district. Perhaps a statement of some of the things a district is not will prove as helpful as a definition of what it is.

It is not an agency of or a political subdivision of the federal government.

It is not subject to legal control by any federal agency.

It is not an agency of or a political subdivision of the state of Illinois.

It is not subject to the control of any state agency in the determination and execution of its program.

IT IS NOT in any sense a county governmental agency or in any way subject to control by the county board of supervisors, though it may be organized along county lines. In this connection it is interesting to note that drainage districts in Illinois cannot be legally organized to correspond to a political unit, such as a township or county. Soil conservation districts would probably be subject to the same limitation if they had the power to levy assessments.

In the language of the law itself, a soil conservation district is ". . . a public body, corporate and public, organized in accordance with the provisions of this act." It is answerable only to the farm owners in the district and so long as it operates within the scope of its authority has complete power to adopt any program it sees fit. No agency, either public or private, federal or state, has the power to dictate its program in any respect.

SINCE SOIL conservation legislation and the agencies established by such legislation are based on the idea that soil is a national resource and its conservation a problem affecting the public welfare, it should go without saying that the district owes certain duties to the public. The public is entitled to expect that work will not be done in a haphazard pattern on anybody's farm, but that some sound plan or design calculated to achieve maximum conservation will be worked out and a conscientious effort made to block in the pattern.

The fact that soil conservation service personnel actually do the planning and furnish assistance does not excuse the district from any of its duties. It has an obligation when it enters into agreements with the Soil Conservation Service or any other agency—an obligation to enter only such agreements as fulfill its duties to the public. If the directors find that these duties cannot be fully discharged under an existing agreement or memorandum of understanding, they have but two choices—to consult with the agency and attempt to revise the agreement or, failing this, to withdraw from the agreement.

Lake Michigan water plan would serve many towns

A far reaching $100 million project whereby a private water company would supply suburban cities with their water supply was told by Des Plaines Kenneth Meyer at city council meeting.

The concern, known as Metropolitan water supply company with offices in Berwyn, proposes to build a crib in Lake Michigan near the Cook-Lake county lines and 200 miles of mains to distribute the lake water to communities as far west as Aurora, as far south as Joliet and Berwyn and about as far north as Lake Forest.

Beekeeper has two ways of protecting honey income

The Midwest beekeeper who wants to protect his income from honey has his choice of two methods under the 1952 price support program which has been announced by the production and marketing administration of the department of agriculture. Loans and purchase agreements both are offered by PMA's county committees. The price varies according to the type of honey.

White table honeys are supported at 12.25 cents per pound, while the amber types are supported at 11.75 cents. Non-table honeys, such as Spanish needle, buckwheat, goldenrod, and others of limited popularity, are supported at 10.25 cents per pound. Price support is limited to extracted honey, packed in 5 gallon cans or in drums.

THE BEEKEEPER who wishes to put his honey under loan makes application at the county PMA office. The county committee will draw samples, and will collect a service fee of 5 cents per hundred pounds, $3.00 minimum, and an inspection fee of 75 cents per sample, $3.60 minimum. The loan will be made by the committee itself, or by a local bank or other lending agency approved by PMA.

Honey producers may pool their honey or may assemble larger lots through a cooperative organization for purposes of a loan. The loan matures on March 31, 1953, and he has the right to pay off his loan at any time and sell the honey if he desires. The honey may be stored in the producer's own storage space, or in a warehouse which has been approved by PMA. Price support loans bear interest at 3.5 per cent. If the honey is turned over to PMA after March 31, no interest charge is collected.

PURCHASE agreements also are available to those who desire them. The county PMA committee agrees to purchase a maximum amount of honey listed by the producer, with option of delivery next March 31. However, the producer has the right to sell part or all the honey before the delivery date if he desires. No inspection of the honey is involved, and the service fee which the producer must pay is half that required in the case of a loan; 2.5 cents per pound, with a minimum of $1.50.

No protein concentrates; grass silage instead

Ed Ogren's cows would probably turn up their noses at protein concentrates. They haven't tasted any for three years.

Instead, they've been getting 50 pounds of grass silage per head daily during the barn feeding season, with a corn-oats-bran mixture as their only grain.

They've been filling the milk pail on this ration, too. For 1949 his purebred Holsteins averaged 430 pounds of butterfat from 11,800 pounds of milk. In 1950 they made 413 pounds of fat from 10,800 pounds of milk. And in 1951 they gave an excellent 495-pound average from 12,200 lbs. of milk. He's milking 24 head now.

"I only wish I had more silage," says Ogren, Kane county dairyman. "This hay silage is real stuff. I never worry about a shortage of protein or high prices for it. I haven't bought any protein for almost the past three years."

Making silage is fast growing practice

Grass silage has come to stay. Development of the field chopper has made this one of the fastest-growing farm practices in the Midwest. Reasons why grass silage is getting ahead so fast are these:

(1) An acre of pasture ensiled produces more meat and milk than when harvested by any other method; (2) surplus pasture of early summer can be ensiled for use in July and August; (3) it goes in at 65 to 70 per cent moisture, which takes only 1 to 3 hours sunshine; (4) weedy hay fields can be cut early—before they would be ready to make field-cured hay; (5) weeds don't get ahead of grasses and legumes and go to seed; (6) early cutting spreads the haying work more evenly; (7) grass ensilage fits perfectly into a soil conservation plan.

Only earliest corn may need borer control

Borer development during the week advanced more than prevailing temperature would indicate. Pupation in southern and south-central Illinois is nearly complete. As far north as Carlinville and Effingham, emergence of moths has already started and may be accelerated by a return of high temperatures. In central Illinois pupation ranges up to 90 per cent complete, but very few moths have emerged in this area. Emergence and egg laying may start this week. In northern Illinois pupation varies from 0 to 25 per cent and is most retarded in the northwestern counties.

First corn borer egg masses were found in market garden corn in the East St. Louis area May 29. Growers of early market corn who plan to spray for borer control should watch their fields carefully for signs of egg hatch which may come within a week. Treatment of early sweet corn should be started when first egg hatch occurs. Producers of early market sweet corn in Rock Island and Kankakee counties should begin looking for eggs in about a week.

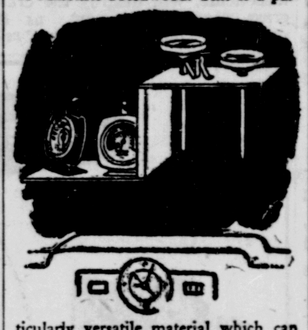
At present it still appears that only the earliest planted field corn may require treatment. Egg mass counts and plant height will determine the need for treatment. With borer development ahead of corn, many eggs will be laid on small corn, where survival will be so low that treatment will not pay. No field corn is in danger at this time, but final estimates on what corn, if any, may need treatment cannot be made for some time.

Handy Jim's FIXIN-UP TIPS For Farm and Home

Cooking Thermometer Shelf

THERE is a growing trend in American kitchens to keep many utensils out in the open where they are easy to reach. This is particularly valuable in the case of often-used instruments and those which are apt to be damaged if left to roll around in a drawer with a lot of other tools. For instance, if you have a fine set of cooking thermometers, as so many good cooks do today, it is a very simple matter to construct a small, handy shelf to display them and protect them.

First take a rectangular piece of one-inch board and two rectangular pieces of Masonite Presdwood. This is a particularly versatile material which can be used for innumerable jobs around the home. The dimensions of these pieces are up to you, depending on the available space and the number of cooking thermometers you wish to display.



These two pieces will actually make two shelves. Into the piece to be used for the top, drill two small holes, into which you can insert the stainless steel stems of your roast meat thermometer and your candy-jelly-deep fat frying thermometer. The round, clock-like faces of the thermometers will prevent them from slipping through the holes, and the thermometers will be always within easy reach if you attach your shelf to the wall or cabinet near the range.

Modern Etiquette

by ROBERTA LEE

Q. How can I give a buffet supper?

A. Anytime between five and eight p. m. Hot dishes, salads, rolls, appetizers, dessert and beverages are served. The dishes, napkins, and silverware are placed on the table with the food, and the guests help themselves. This is a good way to entertain a large gathering without maid service.

Q. What kind of entertainments are appropriate for announcing a wedding engagement?

A. Engagements are announced by parents or older relatives of the bride-to-be, and this may be done at formal or informal dinners or luncheons, dances, card or cocktail parties.

Q. Is it considered improper to use the knife in cutting the lettuce in a salad?

A. There is no ban at all against cutting the salad with a knife.

Q. How should the engraved invitations to a formal dinner in one's home be worded?

A. "Mr. and Mrs. John J. Carter request the pleasure of Mr. and Mrs. William S. Howard's company at dinner on Thursday, September the nineteenth, at eight o'clock—284 Burney Avenue."

Q. If a couple know that their engagement is to be a long one, should a public announcement be made?

A. Yes; but the announcement should include "that no date has been set for the wedding."

Q. Is it proper to name the second son "junior" after his father, or is this title always supposed to be conferred on the oldest son?

A. The "junior" in a family need not be the first son.

Q. My husband and I have been invited to a double wedding ceremony. The one couple are very good friends, but the other we know only slightly. Are we obligated to give wedding gifts to both couples?

A. A gift to your good friends is the only requirement. Of course, a little gift to the other bride would not be improper, but it isn't expected.

Q. Is it proper to sip your coffee or tea with the spoon?

A. Not the entire cup. The spoon may be used for tasting only, never for drinking. After stirring your beverage and tasting, lay the spoon in the saucer and let it remain there.

Q. Is the prefix "Mr." ever omitted from a man's card?

A. It is omitted from a man's business card, but never from the card which he uses socially.

Q. To settle an argument, will you tell me the correct way in which to eat peas? Is it ever proper to eat them with a spoon?

A. It is customary always to eat vegetables with the fork. This applies to peas, too.

Announce more stars at Chevy Chase; to open 'Charley's Aunt' June 20

The first of many stars opens the Chevy Chase theater slate next week Friday, June 20, when Robert Q. Lewis opens a nine day engagement of "Charley's Aunt." The theater, under canvas next to the lagoon at Chevy Chase, is located on Milwaukee avenue northwest of Wheeling.

The role of the young students masquerading as a maiden aunt and scampering through the hilarious complications of the Charley's Aunt plot it made-to-measure for Mr. Lewis. As one of the entertainment world's fastest-rising stars, Lewis has demonstrated an amazing versatility, hitting the top in both radio and television.

The new setup at Chevy Chase this year includes establishment of a supper club in the space formerly occupied by the theater. The new South American tent, completely weatherproof and fireproof, will provide 1200 seats in Theater - in - the - Round fashion with no seat farther than 12 rows from the stage.

Following Lewis at Chevy Chase will be Joanne Dru and John Ireland in "John Loves Mary" July 1, Franchot Tone in "Petrified Fores." Vincent Price in "Goodbye Again," and Terry Moore and John Agar in "Gramercy Ghost."

Ill. Tech fund drive

Elmer S. Werner, Rte. 1, Roselle, an alumnus of Illinois institute of technology, is taking an active part in the 11th annual alumni fund drive of the institute.

Illinois Tech's more than 30,000 alumni throughout the United States are being solicited for funds to further the operations and development of the institute's fast growing technology center on Chicago's near south side. Alumni contributions, received during solicitations made in the last ten years, have already exceeded $1 million.

Harry M. Essington, 114 S. Elmhurst ave., Mt. Prospect, an alumnus of Illinois institute of technology, is also taking an active part in the fund drive of the institute.

Weekly recipe

For your next extra special dinner, try roast beef with butter cream gravy. Our recipe this week features beef chuck because it has the best flavor of the less tender cuts. All cuts of beef from the less tender area should be cooked by the moist heat method, and braising it in butter assures flavor and tenderness.

Roast Beef with Butter Cream Gravy

4 lbs. of beef chuck
3 tablespoons butter
2 teaspoons salt
1 cup diced carrots
1 cup diced celery
1/3 cup chopped onion
1 pint butter cream (soured cream)

Method: Melt butter in dutch oven or heavy pan which has tight fitting lid. Brown meat in butter on all sides. Add salt and turn fire very low, cover and cook until nearly tender, adding a little water from time to time as needed (about 3 hours). Add vegetables and cook 15 minutes. Now add the butter cream—stir over vegetables—cover—cook five minutes more. Serve on preheated platter. Yield: 6 generous servings.

In the future

Socks, pants, sheets, etc., can be quickly mended with a new adhesive fabric. The mending fluid is applied like glue, works on any color fabric and is guaranteed to hold when mended fabric is washed, boiled or ironed . . . Fluorine dental paste that also polishes teeth is available to dentists only . . . Self-cleaning hairbrush has a movable plate which can be raised to bring loose hairs up for easy removal . . . An insecticide works inside growing plants and trees and lasts from two to six weeks, the maker claims.

Memorial stadium at the University of Illinois is again scheduled to be a commencement scene Sunday, June 15, when 2,810 candidates for degrees from the University's Urbana-Champaign units go there for 2:30 p. m. ceremonies. President Harlan H. Hatcher (inset) of the University of Michigan will speak. A second Illinois commencement will be held Thursday, June 19, when 387 graduates of the University's health sciences professional units in Chicago receive degrees at ceremonies in the drill hall at Navy Pier.

Crab grass had rough spring, can be easily controlled

Home gardeners have been given a breathing spell in their annual fight against crab grass, their number one lawn enemy.

Because of a cool, late spring, the seed of crab grass has not germinated in lawns. This makes possible the use of new crab grass killers which destroy the seedlings before they can begin to grow.

During the hot, dry weather of late April, crab grass seed in vegetable gardens that were watered did germinate freely. Lack of moisture has prevented the seed from sprouting in lawns, however.

Following experimental work at the University of Wisconsin research workers have developed a new crab grass killer which promises to give the best control to date of this common lawn weed. It is based on the fact that chlordane, a common insecticide, will destroy the crab grass seedling as soon as it sprouts. One application remains effective all summer long. This eliminates the problem of having to destroy later seedlings as they appear. Crab grass continues to germinate all summer so long as the temperature is over 80 degrees.

Woman in moon

The Rev. Leon Rivard, St. Adolphe, Canada, priest and amateur astronomer: "The Man in the Moon is a woman. Her figure measures 860 miles from head to toe and can be seen lying between two mountain chains."

Bits o' business

Candy makers' sales in April were $75 million, up eight per cent over April, 1951 . . . Things were sweet for furniture manufacturers, too. For the first time this year orders were above the corresponding 1951 month—April sales topping April, 1951, by a whopping 18 per cent . . . Manufacturers' sales were $23 billion, up five per cent over March . . . And macaroni sales soared, at least in New York, as spuds grew scarcer.

About your health

Bronchoscopy, a term meaning the inspection or observation of the bronchi, is becoming of increasing importance in the modern diagnosis and treatment of chest diseases. Air, as it is inhaled, passes through the larynx, or voice box, and into the trachea or windpipe. The trachea divides in the chest into two main bronchi which conduct air to each lung, one on either side of the chest. Each of these main bronchi then divides into the bronchi to each lobe of the lung. Within each lobe, the bronchi divide and branch, thus becoming smaller and more numerous so that each tiny area of the lung receives its tiny bronchus. These bronchi are a system of branching tubes and may be likened to the branches of a tree. Because of this similarity, it is sometimes called the tracheobronchial tree.

THE FUNCTION or action of this system of tubes is to conduct air to and from the lungs and to drain the lungs. The actual absorption of oxygen into the blood and the elimination of carbon dioxide from the blood occurs in the lung itself, but it is the bronchi which conduct the oxygen to the lungs and remove the carbon dioxide.

The second principal function of the bronchi is drainage. It is estimated that about a quart of fluid is brought up from the bronchi every 24 hours. The inside walls of the bronchi are moist, and this moisture must be constantly changed and kept fresh. The interior of the bronchi is lined by cells which have a minute hair-like tuft protruding from their surface. These "cilia," as they are called, wave back and forth and move the secretion in an upward direction.

WHEN THE FLUID on the walls of the bronchi becomes too plentiful or too thick in consistency to be eliminated by the cilia, then a cough occurs and these secretions are carried upwards by that action.

The instrument used in the examination of the bronchi is called the bronchoscope. Although there are many different types and sizes, the bronchoscope consists essentially of a straight, hollow round tube with a tiny electric lamp at the end. Being hollow, it is possible to see through it and to insert into it various instruments.

Instruments used frequently through the bronchoscope are telescopes, aspirators, forceps, dilators, electrodes and magnets. Telescopes make it possible to see off to the side of the bronchoscope. Aspirators are connected to a suction machine which collects secretions for laboratory examination. Forceps are used to remove tiny pieces of tissue for microscopic examination as well as for the removal of foreign bodies or objects that enter the lung. Dilators are for stretching areas of bronchial obstruction. Various electrodes are used for cauterizing tumors in the trachea and bronchi, and magnets are occasionally used in the removal of certain types of foreign bodies.

GIs behind on home loans should be wary of gyps

Veterans delinquent on payments on GI loans are warned to check carefully any offers by strangers to pay delinquent payments if they, the veterans, will "sign on the dotted line," Robert D. Beer, manager of the Chicago veterans administration regional office, said.

Such veterans should check with the holder of the mortgage or with the loan guaranty division of the nearest VA regional office to determine whether or not the offer is legitimate and sound.

In one form of this racket the veteran, behind in his GI loan payments, is approached by individuals offering to pay the delinquent installments if the veteran will "sign on the dotted line."

THE VETERAN soon learns he has signed a deed and can get his property back only by signing a land sales contract at a much higher price.

When the veteran finds he is unable to meet the excessive terms of the land sales contract, legal action is taken to obtain possession of the veteran's home.

Many variations of these practices are used in different parts of the country, depending on state and local laws. Although these practices may be legal, they are considered unethical by the vast majority of mortgage lenders and real estate brokers. Beer advises veterans they will be protecting their own interests and doing other veterans a service if they report any such propositions to the holder of the mortgage and to the nearest VA regional office.
